C B Chandler, 87 of 759 North State street was killed instantly today when the truck he was driving was struck by an eastbound New York Central passenger train on the Campbell road near State Route 95 about one mile west of Marion.

The accident occurred at about 9 25 a.m. today. The truck was demolished.

Sheriff LeRoy Retterer who investigated the accident said the truck appeared to be going south across the crossing

Body Trapped in Cab

Mr. Chandler's body was trapped inside the cab of the truck for about 25 minutes after the collision. The truck was carried about 150 feet after it was struck by the train and dumped alongside the tracks on the south side.

The Short Ford Co wrecker was called and opened the jammed door of the truck. Mr. Chandler's body was then removed to the Merle Hughes Mortuary in the Hughes ambulance.

Record Price Paid at Junior Sale

Claridon Youth's Steer Grand Champion of Show

An Aberdeen-Angus steer owned by Max Strine of the Claridon 4-H Club was judged grand champion in the fourth annual Marion Junior Steer Show and Sale yesterday at the Marion Producers' Livestock Cooperative Association grounds on West Center street.

The animal, weighing 937 pounds, sold for 87 cents per pound for a total of $815.19, setting a record in the amount per pound ever paid at a steer show and sale here. The previous high was 70 cents per pound which was the price paid for last year's grand champion animal. This year's grand champion was purchased by the Marion A. & P. Store and was exhibited in front of the store today.

Judged reserve champion of the show was a Hereford steer owned by Dallas Campbell, a member of the Morral F F A. Club. A record price also was paid for this animal, which was bought by the Cleveland A & P. store at a rate of 70 cents per pound The animal, weighing 1,067 pounds, brought its owner $746.90.

In the sale, 47 steers were sold by 31 4-H and F.F.A. Club members, both boys and girls, for a total of $22,034 55. The total weight of the animals was 45,955 pounds. The average prices per hundred pounds, including both the grand champion and reserve champion animals, was $47.95, which is one of the highest averages in the state this year, and perhaps may prove to be the highest.

To Max Strine, exhibitor of the grand champion steer, a Kroger Co. trophy was presented by C. M. Bakely, district manager of the Kroger Co.

In the steer show, three classes of animals were shown, including Aberdeen-Angus, Hereford and

Speeds Vote On 3 Big Money Bills

Congressmen Clearing Desks In Speedy Windup Session

WASHINGTON, Oct. 20—(AP)—Three big money bills were maneuvered into position today so that Congress could pass them quickly and go home.

The three, which include a $7,328,903 000 foreign aid measure, are the only major items standing in the way of adjournment of the first session of the 82nd Congress. The lawmakers hope to call it quits some time this afternoon They have been in session for nine months and 17 days

Two of the appropriations bills were whipped into final compromise form at Senate-House conferences last night.

These are the foreign aid bill and a $1,650,000,000 supplemental measure carrying funds for defense purposes, economic stabilization, agencies and various government departments

The third, a $4,000,000,000 military construction bill, still must be worked out in a conference

Except for some miscellaneous odds and ends, all other "must" bills were out of the way, a $5,691,000,000 tax increase bill having left Capitol Hill for the White House last night.

Get Early Start

Anxious to get the year's business over with, House leaders called their branch into session at 10 a.m. earlier than usual. They hoped for sine die, or final adjournment in mid-afternoon.

The Senate met two hours later since the House must act first on the leftover appropriation bills.

Topping the day's calendar in the House was a vote on the President's veto of a bill to help disabled veterans buy automobiles.

By a 55 to 10 vote, 11 more than the two-thirds necessary to override, the Senate re-passed the bill yesterday. The House was expected to follow suit, making the bill law despite the President's objections.

In his veto message, the President said he would approve legislation limiting the proposed aid to veterans who have lost the use of one or both legs at or above the ankle. But he objected to including veterans who are blind or have lost an arm.

The legislation would require the government to pay up to $1,600 on the cost of a car for any veteran of World War II or the Korean fighting who has lost a leg or an arm or is blind or has impaired vision as a result of service.

Congress Shows Speed

In a burst of speed in sharp contrast to the slow pace of previous months, Congress got rid of a lot of "must" measures yesterday.

It sent to the President bills raising the pay of about 1,600,000 civil service and postal workers by from $300 to $800 a year; hiking postal rates an estimated $117,000,000 annually; boosting most people's income taxes between 11 and 12 percent starting Nov. 1, and ending the state of war with Germany.

All bills not acted on at adjournment time remain on the congressional "pending" list and

Formula For Victory

Chest Workers Urged To Shift To High Gear

Some mopping up work and a swing into high gear again Monday morning is the combination that will spell victory for volunteer workers in the Red Feather Community Chest drive now in progress, they were told by Campaign Chairman J B. Bray Friday noon. The occasion was the first report meeting at which the workers turned in cash and pledges amounting to $39,697.70. The goal this year is $97,764.

Mrs. James A. McGlew, a co-chairman for the women's division, presided for the meeting held at the Y.M.C.A. The invocation was spoken by Rev. Harrison L. Ludwig, pastor of the Salem Evangelical and Reformed Church.

"We are going to have to do some mop up work—some people are not doing justice to themselves," Mr. Bray said in a brief talk following Paul Felder's request for volunteers to make return calls on chest subscribers Mr. Bray noted the fact there would be a slowing down over the weekend when calls could not be made, and added, "we will have to wind up all over again and get in high gear for the work next week." Encouraging reports are being received, but he intimated that next week's reports will tell the story. "If we have our hearts in it, we will make it," Mr. Bray stated.

A brief talk was given by Leonard Elliott, chest publicity chairman, and Miss Mary Kathryn Stone, Girl Scout director, was introduced.

The workers will meet for their second report meeting at a "Dutch treat" luncheon, Tuesday noon at the Y M C A.

Agreement Nears On Truce Talks

Reds Accept U.N. Compromise On Security Provisions

MUNSAN, KOREA, Oct 20—(AP)—Communist liaison officers today accepted a United Nations compromise of a quarter-mile-wide security path to the proposed new site for Korean armistice talks, and agreement seemed near for quick resumption of the long-stalled discussions.

Col. Andrew J. Kinney, senior Allied liaison officer, said after today's session: "I rather expect the thing will get settled tomorrow one way or the other."

Liaison officers of both sides will resume their conferences tomorrow at 10 a. m. (8 p. m. Saturday E.S.T.). If agreement is reached then on security conditions, fullscale talks could be resumed within a few days.

The Reds agreed to a United Nations proposal for a 400-meter corridor straddling the road from Panmunjom six miles west of Red headquarters at Kaesong and 16 miles southeast to the U. N. command advance camp at Munsan.

One Point Remains

Only one point remained in dispute before arrangements are complete for resumption of full-scale cease-fire negotiations—and the liaison officers appeared near agreement on that point: shall the U.N. agree in writing to keep its warplanes from flying over the security zone around Kaesong?

The U.N. offered the 400-meter (437 6 yards) corridor compromise during a two-hour session Saturday morning. The Reds accepted it at an afternoon meeting.

The corridor would be free from attack by either side.

The liaison officers talked four hours and 10 minutes today in the cold and wind-swept circus tent at Panmunjom. It was the longest one-day session since efforts were started to get the talks

Two Hurt As Auto Runs Into River

In City Hospital After Accident Near Prospect

Two Marionites were injured last night about midnight when the car in which they were riding left the road on Roue 203 and ran into the Scioto River, a mile and a half north of Prospect.

Dwight Miley, 33, of 613 East Farming street, driver of the car, was admitted to Marion City Hospital for treatment of lacerations of the throat and left cheek.

A passenger, Mrs. Georganna Evans of 418 North Jefferson street, was also admitted and is being treated for lacerations of the nose, face, and right leg.

In Fair Condition

Both are reported in "fair" condition today. They were taken to the hospital by a passing motorist.

The car, which was damaged extensively, was pulled from the water by the Almendinger Garage Co of Prospect.

The accident occurred just after the auto had rounded a curve in the highway north of Prospect The car struck a guardrail and plunged end over end into the river. It landed on its top.

Mr. Miley told hospital attendants he didn't remember how he and his companion got out of the overturned auto.

In 3 Feet of Water

Mr. Almendinger said he received a call to the scene at 12:45 this morning. He found the car laying on its top in three feet of water. It also was bogged down in the mud of the river bottom. A small aluminum boat was used to attach lines to the auto and it was pulled to the bank.

Mr. Almendinger said the injured persons had been taken to the hospital by the time his wrecker arrived and he did not know how they got away from the vehicle.

House Sends Tax Increase To Truman

Approves Boost Of $5,691,000,000 By 185-160 Vote

WASHINGTON, Oct. 20—(AP)—A $5,691,000,000 tax increase awaits President Truman's signature today after a perilous journey through the House.

185 to 160 roll call vote in that chamber yesterday clinched passage of the big revenue measure. The Senate had approved it Thursday by a voice vote. Yesterday's victory was a sweet one for House administration leaders, stung four days before by rejection of an earlier compromise version of the bill.

All hands on Capitol Hill took it for granted that Mr. Truman would approve the increase promptly.

It calls for a sharp boost in individual income taxes beginning Nov. 1, and—provided it is signed by tomorrow—for higher rates on dozens of manufactured products, including whisky, cigarettes, gasoline and automobiles.

Corporation taxes also are due to go up, and retroactively.

Over a full year's operation, the bill is expected to bring in $2,280,000,000 additional revenue from individuals, $2,207,000,000 more from corporations, and $1,204,000,000 extra in excise (sales) taxes.

Total Increase

The total increase is calculated at $2,764,000,000 for the current fiscal year, now nearly one-third gone. Added on to revenue from existing laws, the increase is estimated to bring the government's total income to about $64,700,000,000 for the 1952 fiscal year which ends next June 30.

That total, however, may be three to eight billion dollars below the outgo for the period.

The bill provides little more than half the $10,000,000,000 additional revenue the President asked for this year. The $5,691,000.000 total of the compromise bill compares with a $7,200,000,000 increase voted by the House originally. This was pruned down to $5,400,000,000 in the Senate.

The new measure and two other tax bills passed since the outbreak of the Korean war have added nearly $16,000,000,000 to the American tax load.

A tax increase, varying only a few minor particulars from the one finally approved was rejected by the House Tuesday, 204 to 157.

Republicans Stand Pat

On the final, decisive roll call yesterday, 147 Democrats, 37 Republicans and one independent supported the bill. Thirty-four Democrats and 126 Republicans voted against it. Some northern Democrats who had opposed the legislation as putting too heavy a burden on low income groups were persuaded to reverse their votes. In general, the Republicans who opposed the first compromise Tuesday were still against the bill. They argued the administration should move to reduce government spending before insisting on additional tax money.

For the majority of Americans, the bill means an increase of slightly less than 11¾ percent in their income tax obligations. Since the bill will be in effect for only the last two months of 1951, this year's tax bills will be about 2 percent larger than those last year. The full effect will be felt in 1952.

Jesus, Lover of My Soul

IT WAS MARCH, 1788. Eighty-year-old Charles Wesley preached his last sermon at London's City Road chapel. On the 29th, as friends stood around his bed "The sweet bard of Methodism" sang Isaac Watts' hymn, "I'll Praise My Maker, While I've Breath." Then he called for pen and paper. He would yet praise his Maker with another hymn.

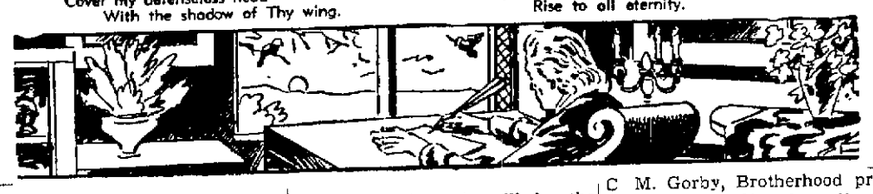
Returning to England in 1736 from Georgia, where he had been secretary to Gov. Oglethorpe, Charles Wesley and his brother, John, started in earnest on their Methodist movement. In half a century John Wesley, six years older than Charles, traveled 250,000 miles and set England afire with 40,000 sermons. Charles set the Christian world singing 6,500 hymns. He wrote perpetually. Many was the time he stopped at houses along the road and asked for pen and paper that he might set down verses he had written in his mind while riding from mission to mission on horseback. At 30 he wrote "Hark, the Herald Angels Sing." At 39 "Love Divine, All Love Excelling" and at 41 "O, For a Thousand Tongues to Sing." Hundreds lay in between. Thousands followed.

When pen and paper were brought to his bed, Charles Wesley was too weak to write. But he still had breath and as his wife took down the lines he began "In age and feebleness extreme . . ." His last song on paper, he said "I'll praise . . ." and died.

Publishing a selection of his brother's works, John Wesley pleaded in the foreword of his "Collection" that critics not "tinker" with the poems as "They are really not able to mend either the sense or the verse." But his plea was ignored and even "Jesus, Lover of My Soul" was tinkered with for 100 years before critics conceded that the original could not be improved. It was of this hymn that Henry Ward Beecher said he would rather have written "than have the fame of all the kings that ever sat upon the earth." Many nice stories have been invented about its writing . . . birds flying through Wesley's study window for refuge . . . Storms at sea . . . the author fleeing from mobs, etc. Charles Wesley was simply praising his Maker when at 31 he wrote his crowning masterpiece. But, strange, the hymn that critics have been unable to improve was thought so little of during Wesley's time that it was not included in a Methodist Hymnal until nine years after the author's death. The song . . .

Thee, O Christ, art all I want;
More than all in Thee I find;
Raise the fallen, cheer the faint.
Heal the sick, and lead the blind.
Just and holy is Thy name,
I am all unrighteousness;
False, and full of sin I am,
Thou art full of truth and grace.

Plenteous grace with Thee is found;
Grace to cover all my sin;
Let the healing streams abound;
Make me, keep me pure within,
Thou of life the fountain art,
Freely let me take of Thee;
Spring Thou up within my heart,
Rise to all eternity.



Faith for Our Times

A Sermonette

Pastor of Central Christian Church

"Who knoweth whether thou are not come to the kingdom for such a time as this." —Esther 4:14.

LEADERS of all walks of life across our land are accused of failing to fulfill their responsibilities. We hear that today men do not have enough courage of their convictions. We should be nearer the truth, however, in saying that men do not fail so much in the courage of their convictions as they are short on the important convictions about life If men need anything today it is a faith large enough and compelling enough to change themselves and their society.

The text points us towards a woman who had a faith for herself and her times. Queen Esther listened to the appeal of her uncle, Mordecai, to plead for her people for the king. Her relative appealed to her as one who had a mission in life, and he left with her the sense of deep obligation to her God. "Who knoweth whether thou art not come to the kingdom for such a time as this". Her decision revealed her as one who had a faith to meet a desperate situation.

Men will live up to that which they believe. By men's living you may say with great accuracy what they believe. Most people sincerely would like to increase the measure of deep convictions and Christian faith, but find themselves unable to allow the spirit of God to give them new guidance and comprehension. For peace of mind and happiness of soul, men need more than a few comfortable phrases about faith. Men need profound beliefs to guide them in their choices of life A thoroughgoing conviction is to the soul as the stabilizer is to the ocean-going vessel.

A faith for our times says that God is present in our world.

In the early days of Yale College, before it became a University, there was a movement for stamping out the idea of God. An interested group was having its first meeting. One undergraduate had another appointment. When he arrived late he whispered to the person next to himself, "Has anyone proved there isn't a God yet?" People can and do argue eloquently on the subject as to the existence of God. As if by a few words we may create Him or abolish Him!

The deeper question of faith is not God's existence, but the query: "Is God concerned with our world?" Most people believe there is a God, but a great many wonder if it makes any difference. The answer is not an argument, but an experience. Until men learn for themselves that Christ not only was but is, not only that He lived once, but lives now, do they build for themselves a conviction that God is relevant for our world. If men can be assured that God is still concerned with our world they have found a faith for our times.

A faith for our times says that humanity is worth God's effort—and ours.

Queen Esther might have spared herself the trouble by making the usually accepted excuse that the people were not worth such a sacrifice. This is but a dignified way of saying that selfishness is the true law of life, for this philosophy allows a person to believe that he, himself, is important.

If God is concerned about this world He must be interested in all peoples—not one individual or any given group. If we believe deeply the first proposition, we are guided inevitably to believe the second. Humanity is God's greatest asset of the universe.

This is the major question of our age: do men have enough faith to match the needs of the hour? In Christ we see that God's ultimate aim was to reconcile man to his Maker and Brother. A sincere following of Him will give power to life, for men will find that God is still achieving His purposes for mankind.

You Hear Strange Things About Catholics.

Yes, you can hear some strange things about Catholics.

You hear it said that Catholics believe all non-Catholics are headed for Hell . . . that they believe non-Catholic marriages are invalid.

Some think Catholics believe the Pope is God . . . that he can do no wrong . . . that they owe him civil allegiance and that he should have the political power to rule America.

It is said that Catholics want religious freedom only for themselves . . . that they oppose public schools and separation of Church and State as evils which should be destroyed.

The claim is made that Catholics pay the priest for forgiveness of their sins . . . that they must buy their departed relatives and friends out of Purgatory . . . that they adore statues . . . are forbidden to read the Bible . . . use medals, candles and holy water as sure-fire protection against the loss of a job, lightning or being run down by an automobile.

But what is worse, some say, Catholics corrupt the true teachings of Jesus Christ with the addition of pagan superstitions and practices that are nothing less than the inventions of the devil.

If all these things—or any of them—were true, it would be a pity. For at least one out of every six Americans is a Catholic—and it would be a national tragedy if one-sixth of all Americans entertained such erroneous ideas.

The Knights of Columbus is an organization of 700,000 Catholic men of reason and intelligence. In our ranks will be found statesmen, scientists, historians, physicians, movie stars, lawyers, educators and others representing every cross-section of American life. And for each and all of them loyalty to the Catholic Faith is the act of a reasonable man.

We are deeply interested in the welfare of our Church and our Country. And we believe the interests of both will be served best when fair-minded people know the Catholic Church as it is—not as it is sometimes mistaken to be.

If you have heard and believed any of these false claims, and want the truth, we will gladly send you a free booklet which explains many aspects of Catholic belief and practice concerning which people are commonly misinformed. Write and and ask for Pamphlet No. 1-N.

Announce Results Of Two Hardin Trials

Special to The Star

BUCYRUS — Common Pleas Judge C. U. Ahl announced here today the results of two jury trials held in his court.

In the $2,143 action for money of Henry Steel against Robert S. Ricksecker of Galion, as administrator of the estate of Hattie M. Steele, the jury returned a unanimous verdict for plaintiff for $900 The plaintiff sought judgment for services allegedly rendered Mrs. Steele.

A unanimous verdict for the defendant was returned in the $1,200 action for money of Foye A. Goodrich, as administrator of the estate of B. E. Goodrich, against Drucilla J. Edgell, Galion. The plaintiff asked judgment for a promissory note, allegedly given by the defendant to her father, Mr. Goodrich. The defendant maintained the $1,200 represented a gift and not a loan.

At 273 degrees below zero centigrade, or minus 460 degrees Fahrenheit, all heat would be removed from an object.

Confident Living

Washed Up? You Can Start All Over

By Norman Vincent Peale

A MAN I know tells me that one of the few great ideas he has ever had came to him when he was a student in high school. He had been called to the principal's office to account for some offense or other and, as he sat waiting for the dubious pleasure of an interview, he noticed a calendar on the office wall.

Lacking anything else to occupy him, he got up and went over to it and looked at it. It pictured a small boat forlornly beached on the sand after the tide had gone out. Below the picture was a sentence: "The tide always comes back."

Dr. Peale

He never forgot that picture or that sentence and, as he went through life, he found it more and more to be his greatest intellectual possession. When difficulties accumulated, and he has had his share of them, he was able to comfort and sustain himself by that thought. "The tide always comes back."

Recently a man of 52 came to me to tell me that his entire life had crashed. Everything he had built up over the years, he said, had been swept away overnight. Now, life lay desolate and hopeless before him.

"Haven't you anything left at all?" I asked.

Sadly, he shook his head.

I TOOK TIME to tell him the story about the tide always coming back. Then I suggested that we take a piece of paper and make two columns on it, heading one "Losses" and the other "Possessions."

"Now let's see how they add up" I said.

When we had done this, "How is your health?"

"My health is all right," he admitted. I wrote down "good health" in the "Possessions" column.

"Is your wife still with you?" was my next question.

"Oh, yes!" He seemed shocked. "She started with me and she'll finish with me. She loves me."

I added "wife" to the "Possessions" column. Then I asked, "Your children, do they love you?"

HE BRIGHTENED UP a bit. "It's wonderful," se said, "the way they come and put their arms around me and tell me, 'Dad, don't worry; we're with you.'"

"You havent any blemishes on your record, have you?" He shook his head.

"How about your friends?"

"It's wonderful the way they've stood by me."

"And you told me," I reminded him, "that everything had been swept away, that you had nothing left. You have two more assets in addition to the five we've listed. They are your brain and the help of God. With those seven, you can do anything you have a mind to do."

He sat reflectively for a moment and then said, "But, I'm 52."

"Is that old?" I asked smilingly, and when he nodded, I answered, "Don't tell me that. I'm 52 myself."

HE THOUGHT for a while and then sighed with relief. "So, everything is all right, isn't it? With God's help, I can start all over again."

And that is exactly what he is doing. To sustain him in his purpose, I gave him one of the greatest ideas in all literature and told him to tuck it under his heart and drive it deeply into his consciousness: "If any man be in God, he is a new creature: old things are passed away; behold, all things are become new."

With that idea in your mind and that experience of God's help you need never be defeated by anything in the world; you can start all over again.

"The tide always comes back."

Appendix Attack Proves To Be Baby

SALEM, Ore. — (UP) — When Mrs. Russell Sullivan became ill while visiting her parents at Falls City, she thought it must be appendicitis.

Her husband, Sgt Sullivan took her to a hospital. It wasn't appendicitis. It was the third Sullivan daughter, totally unexpected.

Mrs Sullivan had been told by her doctor after the birth of Kathy, now two years old, that it was doubtful if she could have another child, so minor illnesses in the ensuing months were attributed to other causes.

The baby, born prematurely, was placed in an incubator and was reported doing well, as was her mother.

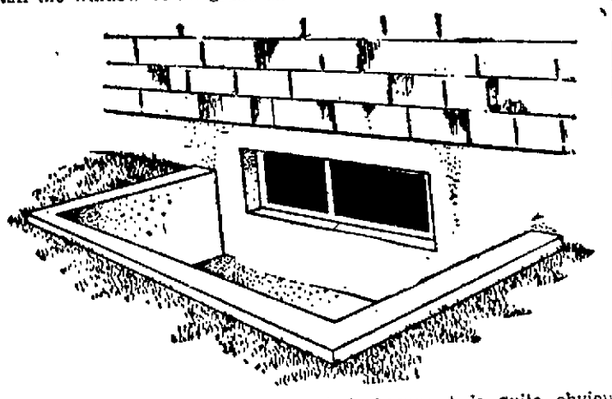
How To Let More Light in Basement

There are two methods used in installing the windows in a house foundation. One is to set the window in the foundation wall above the ground and the other to install the window below grade and surround it with a small retaining wall as shown. As a rule this latter method results in a very dark basement or cellar because the enclosure is too small, usually, being no larger than the width of the window and eighteen inches or so out from the foundation wall. What actually happens in this case is that the angle of light is so restricted that very little of it can get into the basement.



The solution to the average, dark basement is quite obvious when you note the accompanying illustration: a great amount of light can be funnelled into the window by providing a large enclosure instead of a small one around the window.

Some people are hesitant about increasing the size of the window enclosure on the basis that it presents too large a catch basin for rain. This is not a fact, because no more rain will fall on the area of the enclosure than on any other portion of the grunds, moreover normal seepage through the non-waterproofed walls and floor of the enclosure will take care of the rainfall nicely.

Practically any home owner can build a large enclosure around the windows by using twelve-inch boards, set four inches apart as forms, and filled with concrete. The floor need be only two inches thick and troweled off smooth.

To increase the light afforded by a larger enclosure, it is good practice to clean down the walls and apply two good, heavy coats white paint. The reflective value of this will increase the light in the basement to an astonishing degree. It is well worth the additional half hour it will take to do.

FIRST AID TO AILING HOUSE

—By ROGER C. WHITMAN—

Ceiling Paper Loosens, Cracks

Q: The paper on the ceiling of our living room loosens and cracks. What can I do with it?

A The condition might be due to lack of glue sizing on the plaster, or incomplete removal of the calcimine before the application of paper. After removing the paper, wash off the plaster with warm water to make certain all calcimine has been removed. After plaster has dried, put on a coat of glue sizing, then apply the wallpaper in the usual manner.

Streaked Brick Siding

Q: How can I remove a kerosene streak from light brown imitation brick siding?

A: Kerosene cannot be removed from imitation brick siding because this siding is made of asphalt, and kerosene is a solvent for it. Eventually the kerosene will evaporate and the stain will not be so prominent, although it probably will not disappear completely.

Mrs. Brown conducted devotions, and Mrs. Myrtle Roby gave a reading from the King's Daughters publication. Quilt blocks were made and bandages were rolled.

Ohio Being Denied More Natural Gas

CHARLESTON, S. C., Oct. 20—(AP)—Ohio Public Utilities Commissioner Ray O. Martin said Friday a "share-the-gas" theory held by federal officials is denying more natural gas to Ohio.

In a speech prepared for delivery at the 63rd annual convention of the National Association of Railroad and Utilities Commissioners, Martin sharply criticized federal control over the nation's supply of natural gas.

The "share-the-gas" theory, Martin said, is that everyone in the nation ought to have natural gas, and that states like Ohio must hold up further expansion of the use of gas until the rest of the country catches up.

Will Feel Effect of Shortages

Postwar Low In New Home Building Is Seen By Early Part of 1952

WASHINGTON, Oct. 20—(INS)—Home building may drop to a postwar low early next year as a result of new production controls and impending shortages of bathtubs, stoves, kitchen equipment and plumbing products.

Mobilization directors are studying plans that would permit builders to construct 168,200 new homes next January, February and March, about 36 percent less than the number started in the same quarter of this year.

But there is serious concern among many top officials that the supply of manufactured building products—particularly plumbing articles—will govern home building next year.

The Defense Production Administration is expected to allow builders to use enough steel, copper and aluminum to construct 130,000 residential type homes and about 38,200 apartment and public housing units during the first quarter.

THIS AMOUNT, considered appropriate under present government policy limiting housing output to 850,000 units next year, automatically will reduce home building to the lowest postwar rates.

The shortage of manufactured products will only aggravate this situation and may force builders to postpone construction until supplies increase later in the year.

DPA Director Manly Fleischmann says "the shortage of aluminum in the early part of the year and the shortage of copper that goes into housing, may make it impossible to maintain that goal and we may have to expedite it at the end of the year."

This means that housing output during the first six months of 1952 will be running under the planned rate but later in the year the government will try to step up production so that the total will be close to 850,000 units.

THE BUREAU OF Labor Statistics reports that 91,000 new homes were started last month, a seven percent increase over the figure for August.

BLS attributes the rise to relaxed credit controls, a rush to start construction in advance of new production controls and an increase in the supply of money for the residential mortgage market.

So far this year, builders have started 852,000 new homes, making it a virtual certainty that the industry will pass the one million mark by the end of the year.

Mobilization officials have been expecting production in October, November and December to total about 155,000 units but they now believe output during the quarter will run closer to 200,000. The National Association of Home Builders has opened a campaign to reduce housing costs and provide the maximum amount of housing out of the materials set aside for construction by the mobilization agencies.

NAHB preceded the current drive with a conference last May in Memphis where hundreds of builders were shown substantial evidence that "a really low cost, but livable" home could be produced.

Now, the association is calling together the nation's top low-cost builders to a series of meetings where they will be asked to reveal their trade secrets on cost-cutting and material economies.

The sessions started this weekend at Midwest City, Okla.

NAZARENE CLASSES MEET

Meetings of the First Church of the Nazarene Men's and Women's Classes Tuesday night were held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Connolly east of Marion. A joint session was called to order by Miss Beulah Jones, president of the Women's Class. George Grace led group singing of choruses, and prayer was offered by John Shearer. Each class had a short business session, after a program was presented. Mrs. Jones and George Grace sang, devotions were by Mrs. Edna Ruth, and recorded organ music and hymns were presented by Miss Helen Connolly. George Grace sang, after which Harold Jamison showed moving pictures. Refreshments were served by the hostess and her daughter, Helen, and a committee composed of Mrs. Mabel McWherter, Miss Ruth Bishop, Mrs. Bessie Shearer and Mrs. Nellie McCleary. At the close, Mrs. Jones presented Mrs. Ruth, the guest speaker, a gift. The next meeting will be at the home of Mrs. Frances Thomas.

Time Change

SENATOR TAFT'S bid for the Republican presidential nomination in 1952 has revived an opinion put into circulation by his opponents many years ago and kept alive by their diligent efforts.

They want as many people as possible to believe that the Ohioan would make a bad campaign if he ran for the presidency. They concede he would know what he was talking about, that he would be intellectually honest and that he has one of the keenest minds in public life. But they harp endlessly on the theme that Senator Taft would make a bad campaign.

All this started with the invidious comparison between the late Franklin D. Roosevelt's charming manners as a campaigner and the senator's dry, factual presentations of his viewpoints. While Mr. Roosevelt lived, there was a high premium on his particular brand of charm in politics, just as there was a high premium on flutelike radio voices. But times chage.

Charm did not save either Mr. Roosevelt or the country from failure to think through the consequences of some policies undertaken in the name of charm. It did not offset the repercussions of intellectual dishonesty. By 1950, when Senator Taft ran for re-election in Ohio, voters in his own state had found something they valued vastly more than charm—a political candidate who talked intelligently about the issues and was not afraid to say what he thought, even though his voice failed to be fruity. A thumping majority of Ohioans found Senator Taft to be utterly charming in 1950.

Who's Running the Place?

USEFUL light is turned on the Ohio State speaker-screening issue by an Associated Press survey showing that all but 10 universities have some form of control over campus speechmaking.

It is unthinkable that any educational institution would let speakers use its campus as a sounding board willy-nilly. Not only other Big Ten universities but every institution of higher learning in the country reserves and exercises the right to screen speakers.

The attempt to blow up the Ohio State policy into a free-speech and academic-freedom issue is turning into a fizzle as level heads begin to comprehend what would be the sorry state of any university which failed to control its own educational environment. The trustees of Ohio State merely decided to affirm more clearly than it had been affirmed before that the president of the university should know who was making speeches on the campus in his charge.

If critics of this policy know how to run a university without making someone responsible for its operation, they know more than any of the people who now are running universities.

Legislative Blues

THE Democratic affliction known as the legislative blues has crept back upon us these last few months. But it now reaches its crisis, as it has so many times before—and soon all of us will feel better.

Congress will adjourn. The sounding board on Capitol Hill will be given a rest. There will be fewer Washington datelines in the papers and fewer breathless bulletins via electronics.

There will be time to consider and tabulate the grist dumped into the hoppers and what was removed from the loading platform. There will be a respite from chaff and dust and the clanking of millstones. Or do these imaginings only reflect the dark despair which causes so many of us to suspect toward the close of congressional sessions that the republic survives in spite of legislation, not because of it?

In any case, that part of Congress which has not gone home in advance, being the victim of its own despair, is shortly to adjourn until next January, barring the possibility of a special session. The national legislators have earned a rest both by doing and by not doing. A year-end vacation is one thing on which they and their constituents can agree.

To the President's Credit

IT TAKES a big man to undo a big mistake. President Truman makes himself a candidate for that distinction with his promise to the Associated Press Managing Editors Association to consider constructive suggestions for changing his recent security order to federal employes.

The issue is whether or not the United States can find a way to keep vital information from a possible enemy without gagging its own free press. Newspapermen believe Mr. Truman's recent order will be abused. They contend it represents a badly-advised decision. They say it can be improved.

Mr. Truman has gone halfway toward agreement. The problem is not yet solved, but at least there is going to be a chance to reach a better solution than seemed likely under the President's original order.

Russia Goes Fishing

By David Lawrence

Believed To Be Seeking Way To Compromise

WASHINGTON

RUSSIA is fishing for a way to negotiate a "compromise" of her choosing in the world situation.

The latest exchange of notes between the Soviet and American governments is very revealing. It indicates not only that the Russians were quick to take advantage of Ambassador Kirk's final visit to their Foreign Office but that the price of a truce or concessions in Korea is still related to factors that concern the rearmament of Germany and the future of Japan.

LAWRENCE

What is most significant is the pointed reference in the Russian note to the informal comment by President Truman recently that "agreements with the Soviet Union are not worth the paper they are written on."

Instead of regarding this as an expression of hopelessness, the Russians adroitly turn it to a bid for further negotiations. They, of course, endeavor to place the United States in the position of refusing to negotiate and hence of planning only the use of force. But they also challenge America to put faith in paper agreements, anyway. The most important section of any diplomatic note is the windup—the last paragraph, and in the Russian note this reads as follows:

"Nonetheless, the Soviet government, following its peaceful policy and constantly striving for the establishment of cooperation with all countries who are prepared to cooperate with the Soviet Union, agrees to examine with the participation of the government of the U.S.A. all important and unsettled questions and to discuss measures for the improvement of international relations, including relations between the Soviet Union and the U.S.A.

IT WILL BE SAID that the Russians use that approach solely to represent themselves as peaceful and that the statement is meaningless. But, on the other hand, the American note was caustic and pointed and could readily have evoked a reply wholly bellicose in tone.

It will be noted that immediately after the Russian note arrived here, President Truman answered a question at his press conference saying he stood by his original remark about Russian agreements not being worth the paper they are written on. Whether this was or was not a discreet comment to make and one calculated to delay a negotiation, the fact is that what the President says reflects accurately the state of mind of all the important officials in the United States government today.

The American thesis now is that, after its rearmament program has reached its goal in a year or two, the Russian government will be impressed by our strength and will be persuaded thereby to become conciliatory. Hence there is, as has been pointed out before in these dispatches, a certain inconsistency in the position of both the President and Secretary of State Acheson who, on the one hand, say agreements with Moscow are worthless and, on the other hand, predict that some day the United States will nevertheless be ready to negotiate agreements with the Kremlin. It may be that the Russians do not take Mr. Truman's recent remarks seriously and believe if he had a chance to negotiate an over-all settlement now, he would anyway

THE COMMUNIST regime is patiently waiting for the American government to get tired of the Korean war and other harassments in Iran and Egypt and thinks that in the not-far-distant future the United States will be ready to swap a settlement in Korea for concessions elsewhere. The firing of MacArthur was undoubtedly construed as a bid for appeasement. At any rate, here is the Russian price of peace as stated in their own language. It lists the "unresolved international problems of first importance" as follows:

". . . The question of measures which would assure the creation of a unified, peaceful, democratic, independent German government and the conclusion of a peace treaty with Germany; of a peaceful settlement with Japan; of unconditional prohibition of atomic weapons and the establishment of strict international control; of the termination of the armaments race and reduction of armed forces; the prohibition of war propaganda and of the conclusion of a peace pact"

Being good poker players, the Communists profess innocence of any complicity in Korea and try to give the impression they haven't been scared by America's growing armament. But, reading between the lines, they seem to be trying to bluff their way into a "compromise" if they can inveigle the western powers into granting one. Maybe the Russians think that after Egypt and Iran are in a turmoil, the West will yield.

Through the Dismal Swamp

The Moslem Ferment and Its Origin

By George E. Sokolsky

THE ASSASSINATION of Liaquat Ali Kahn of Pakistan is an index to the nature of the Moslem ferment.

Pakistan is distant from the United States and generally is assumed to be of lesser importance among the Moslem nations. Actually, it is both geographically and culturally important, lying on the boundaries of Iran, Afghanistan, and India. Across the Hindu Kush mountains lies Soviet Russia.

SOKOLSKY

This is an old part of the world which has known history and civilization for many centuries. Through it runs the Indus River. Wave after wave of conquering peoples crossed it both from the east and from the west into the southern and richer regions of India.

Islam appeared in India within 80 years after the death of the prophet in 632. The Arab Khalifs became the masters of Persia, western Turkestan and Sind, which is now the southern province of Pakistan, containing its capital Karachi. In the 8th century, the Arab general Mohammed Bin Kazin set up a dynasty which governed the area. However, the principal Moslem invaders came from Afghanistan through the Khyber Pass into the Punjab.

Out of the mountain kingdom of Granzi, the Moslems conquered a large part of the Punjab, driving back the Rajput chiefs and obliterating wherever they could the Hindu culture and religion. Between 1191 and 1206, Mohammed Ghori conquered northern India as far as Bihar and Bengal. Katub Ud-Din Aibak, a Turk, took over in 1206 and he made Delhi his capital.

DURING THIS period of conquest, the Moslems were unusually brutal in their treatment of Hindus. They were fired by the Moslem concept of the Holy War, of winning to their faith all the world by fire and sword. However, as the centuries passed, the two peoples reacted upon each other. For instance, Urdu, a widely-spoken tongue in all parts of India, is a jargon of Hindu, Persian and Arabic. Many thinkers and religious peoples have tried to find a common faith for both the Hindus and Mohammedans, with little success, however. Akbar actually established an eclectic religion, but it died with him.

Timur, who claimed descent from Genghis Khan, and is often referred to as Timur Lenk or Tamerlane, in 1398, setting out from Samarkand, determined upon the conquest of the whole of India for Islam. He and his descendants, after many vicissitudes, established what became the Mogul Empire of India, which lasted until Clive defeated them for England (1757).

The greatest of Timur's descendants was probably Babar, who with an army of Turkomans, Mongols and Afghans established a rule over much of Hindustan. His grandson, Akbar, one of the really great and civilized ruler of the world, reigned for 49 years and united under one government Hindus, Moslems, Rajputs, Afghans and numerous races and tribes of India.

H. G. WELLS CORRECTLY said: ". . . this great dynasy of Babar (1526-1530), Humayun (1530-1556), Akbar (1556-1605),, Jehangir (1605-1628), Shah Jehan (1628-1658), and Aurungzeb (1658-1707), in which son succeeded father for six generations, this 'Mogul dynasty,' marks the most splendid age that had hitherto dawned upon India Akbar . . . was one of the greatest of Indian monarchs, and one of the few royal figures that approach the stature of great men."

The Exercise Issue

By TRUMAN TWILL

RIGHT now, with lawn-mowing almost over and snow-shoveling not yet started, is as good a time as any to think about exercise.

All comments on this subject must start, of course, with Mark Twain's quip that he got all the exercise he needed by acting as pallbearer at the funerals of his exercise-happy friends. Or with the other quip, ascribed to many different people, that whenever the need for exercise is felt the thing to do is lie down until it goes away.

Exercise is nonsense, but only the kind of exercise which is artificial and deliberate, like fooling with dumbbells, springs, rowing machines and so on. The tendency among exercise-resisting moderns to refrain from activity of any kind is just as nonsensical.

It is the sort of nonsense which causes millions of Americans to be torturing themselves with diets when all they need is to amble down to the store, or dig up a flowerbed.

It is the thing turning Americans into a race of blubber-bellies for the lack of enough gumption to care for themselves as intelligently as they care for dumb animals.

No one in his right mind would dream of short-chaining a dog on a forced diet of potatoes and bread; it would be grossly inhumane. But if a human being gets so lazy he never moves out of his tracks, yet stuffs himself like a goose tickets for pate de foie gras he pities himself for gaining weight and gets a martyr fixation.

There is no room for a choice between bores who everlastingly talk about how much artificial exercise they take and bores who everlastingly talk about the obvious consequences of taking no exercise at all. With the exception of rare beings whose glandular aberrations cause them to gain weight unnaturally, most of the tubbies dragging themselves to and from tableside are object lessons in what happens to gluttons too lazy to burn up the evidence.

This is fundamentally a plea for tolerance — tolerance from exercise fiends who look askance at anyone who does not sweat and grunt through a lot of damfool antics and tolerance from anti-exercisers who claim to see something unnatural in the regimen of a human being who uses his energy to perform plebian tasks involving hammers, saws, screw drivers, shovels, hoes and spading forks.

In a word, this correspondent is whipping himself up to a frenzy of enthusiasm for the prospect of sawing firewood this winter and is looking for some excuse with more punch to it than the fact the wood will be burned up in the fireplace. If, somehow, sawing wood could be made to fit in with a way of life or some such far-fetched rationalization, it would be easier to bear.

Marion County History Brevities

By EDNA S. DUTTON

The Delaware Indians occupied a small reservation in the corner of four townships, Grand Prairie and Salt Rock in Marion County and Pitt and Antrim Townships in Wyandot County. At that time almost the entire reservation was in Marion County. It was a tract of land three miles square, its south boundary being nine miles north of the city. The Delawares ceded their reservation to the government by a treaty concluded at Little Sandusky, Aug. 3, 1829, for $3,000 and a large reservation west of the Missouri River near Kansas City.

Confusion of Tongues

FROM THE WASHINGTON POST

IN The New York Times, Arthur Krock cites and defines in everyday English many recent and interesting additions to the bureaucratic idiom, sometimes known as Federalese, but oftener, and we think more appropriately, by Maury Maverick's inspired bit of onomatopoesis "Gobbledygook." Examples from Mr. Krocks' glossary are: in the administration, "breach of security"; information, which embarrasses someone in the Government; on Capitol Hill, "service to the Kremlin"; effort to reduce the budget.

Well, what with so many strange and difficult languages being spoken nowadays, it is very hard to make head or tail of anything. Maybe this explains why even newspapers seem to be developing a peculiar dialect of their own. Or, maybe, as the blasphemous man said after he had been connected four or five times with the wrong Government extension, it's a case of evil communications corrupting good manners. Again it may be just another symptom of the disorder known to medical science as editorial writer's colic. Anyhow, here are some formidable idioms gathered from two very recent issues of The New York Times itself.

Unilateral cancelation. When one party to a treaty says, "Oh, the hell with it!"

Responsible Italian opinion. Italians who agree with the Times about the Trieste question.

Sharp political and social reaction. When a large number of persons, whether with or without good reason, become angry at their governments.

Defeatest attitude. A gloomier opinion about the present state of the world than is held by the Times.

Shocking realization. What must come to those who hold a more cheerful opinion than the Times about the present state of the world.

Places of high political power. Certain important politicians whom the Times wishes to rebuke but does not wish to mention by name.

And just to prove we are not being sarcastic or malicious about it, here are a few familiar locutions from our own editorials:

To be sure. Standard method of introducing any objection to our thesis that we feel obliged to notice but intend to dismiss as of no great relevance or importance.

We cannot believe that. Standard method of saying we hope that something that may happen will not happen.

It cannot be doubted that. Standard method of discouraging the reader from taking exception to a conclusion which follows.

That intangible something. Utility phrase to be inserted into the text when the composing room does not allow us enough time to make up our minds what we mean.

As was suggested by this newspaper. Method of modestly reminding our readers of the instances in which we have been right.

Do we make ourselves clear?

Congress Quiz

Q—Do the Russians still owe us money for equipment we sent them in World War II?

A—Yes. President Truman reported to Congress Oct. 3 that America and the Soviet have failed to reach "substantial agreement" in the settlement of Russia's lend-lease account; "despite continued efforts" of U. S. negotiators. This country is demanding payment of $800,000,000 for about $11,000,000,000 in supplies sent to Russia. Russia offered to pay $300,000,000.

Books for a Grandview Library

People are suggesting books suitable for the proposed Harry S. Truman Library at Grandview, and Elmer Twitchell, famous librarian, literary critic, pinochle player and greased-pole climber has come through with a few ideas. Mr. Twitchell throws out one book at the start: "The Life of General MacArthur." And he doesn't look for a place of prominence for the works of Herbert Hoover, Bernard Baruch or "Up San Juan with Teddy Roosevelt." He thinks Mr. Truman will want, of course, a copy of Robert Louis Stevenson's "Travels With a Donkey."

Mr. and Mrs. Slagle Still Active

Hepburn Couple Observe 70th Wedding Anniversary

JOSEPH SLAGLE, 89, OF HEPBURN looks on as his wife, also 89, mends curtains. The couple are celebrating their 70th wedding anniversary today.

"Home-loving folks" describes Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Slagle of Hepburn in Hardin County who mark their 70th wedding anniversary today.

They were married Oct. 20, 1881 at the farm home of T. J. Harvey east of Marion. Both are natives of Marion County.

Mr. Slagle worked for five years as a stone and brick mason in Caledonia. Their children were born there. The couple moved to Indiana where they lived for six years before moving in 1898 to a farm near Hepburn.

In 1913 Mr. Slagle built a new home in Hepburn where they live today. Hepburn is west of LaRue.

Quiet Life

The couple led a quiet life, working in the house and garden. Mrs. Slagle does most of the cooking, washes the dishes, and does some of the cleaning.

Their daughter, Mrs. Lloyd Virden, and their son-in-law, live with them.

Mr. Slagle owns an automobile and still drives short distances in the daytime. He has always been interested in automobiles and in their progress. When he was a young man, there were none.

Mrs. Slagle, too, recalls the early days of the automobile. She remembers the first one she ever saw. It was being driven down a road in front of their farm house near Hepburn and she walked half a mile down a lane to get a closer look.

Brother Was Home Head

Mr. Slagle was one of a family of four children, two boys and two girls. His brother, Grant, was former superintendent of the Marion County Home.

He was born on a farm a few miles northeast of Marion on a site later taken over by the government for its Scioto Ordnance Plant.

When he was about 11, the family moved to a farm near Caledonia.

Mrs Slagle was one of 10 children of James and Maria Plotner. She lived with her parents near Martel until her marriage.

She is a cousin of the late D. R. Crissinger, formerly treasurer of the United States and chairman of the Federal Reserve Board.

Breaks Hip In Fall

In April 1949 Mrs. Slagle fell in a Lima department store and broke her hip. She was then 87 years old, but within three months she was out of bed and in a wheel chair and by the end of that summer she was able to walk She is now able to walk without the use of a cane.

Mr. Slagle keeps busy by taking care of the yard and garden and the upkeep of the house and buildings on the property. He mows the yards and every year plants a big garden which he tends.

Mr. and Mrs Slagle have been active in the Methodist Church They formerly belonged to the Knights of Pythias, but the lodge in their area has since been dissolved.

The couple admit they quarrel sometimes, like most married folks, but they always make up.

One Son

Besides Mrs. Virden the couple has one son living. He is Edmund L. Slagle of Painesville. He has been connected with several banks and is now with The Cleveland Trust Co.

They have one grandchild, Mrs Stanley Gresham of Bay Village and one great grandchild, Donald L. Gresham of Bay Village.

They celebrated their 65th wedding anniversary with an open house, but this year will mark the 70th anniversary with a quiet family reunion.

Both have good health and enjoy life.

University Women Entertain Senior High School Girls

PENNANTS, pictures, yearbooks and pamphlets provided a college setting when the Marion Association of University Women entertained approximately 60 senior girls from the city, county and St. Mary Parochial High Schools Tuesday evening. Planned as High School Day, the guests were girls planning to attend college upon the completion of their high school work. The meeting was at the First Evangelical and Reformed Church.

Mrs. Lester L. Dickey, program chairman, presented Mrs. Allen B. Whitney, assistant professor of English at the University of Akron. Her topic was "Making a Success of College." She gave as the four keys to the doors of college life, be a student, be independent, be friendly but not too social, and be a joiner. She suggested that they be realistic and intelligent about sororities and concluded her talk by saying that the varied opportunities of college life should make them well-rounded graduates, who will in turn, be successful wives, mothers and citizens.

Mrs. Rayl B. Conyers presided for the business session at which Robert Haldeman spoke on the proposed four-mill school levy. Miss Mary Jo Stafford, scholarship chairman, explained the association's loan fund available to girls. Music for the evening was by Mrs. Gerald Jennings who played a medley of college songs and "Intermezzo."

Refreshments were served from a table decorated with bronze and yellow chrysanthemums and yellow tapers. Favors were fashioned of buckeyes and bittersweet. Mrs. John Prichard was in charge of the social hour.

Representing the 15 colleges were: Mrs. Emory Anderson, Wooster; Miss Barbara Axe, St. Mary of the Springs; Mrs. Alwyn Crane, Miami; Miss Margaret Topliff, Kent State; Miss Ruth Turner, Capital; Mrs. William Gracely, Flora Stone Mather; Mrs. Francis E. Wanda, Lake Erie; Mrs. John Plank, Ashland; Miss Bess Snider, Ohio Northern; Miss Margaret Wolfley, Ohio Wesleyan; Miss Zelmah Howard, Ohio State; Miss Patricia Owens, Bowling Green; Mrs. John Pastors, Otterbein; Mrs. Rudy Schuetz, Heidelberg and Miss Marjorie Williams, Ohio University. "Short Rest" Turns Into Twenty-Eight Years

VANCOUVER, B. C. — (UP) — "Hate sin, but love the sinner" has long been the motto of the Rev Aelred F. Carlyle, British Columbia prison chaplain.

Father Carlyle has guided personally the spiritual lives of some 10,000 "persons in distress" since he came to the province from England in 1923.

The priest arrived in British Columbia for a short rest after suffering a nervous breakdown from overwork but he stayed on for 28 years to make his life work among the prisoners and outcasts of society.

He has gone home now. Archbishop Duke of Vancouver gave him an extended leave of absence from the diocese

The smiling 78-year-old priest with kindly eyes will end his days in Prinknash Abbey, a monastery he founded more than 40 years ago in Gloucestershire, England.

As an Anglican, Father Carlyle founded the first Benedictine monastery to be established in the Church of England since the Reformation.

The monastery renounced allegiance to the Anglican Church in 1913 and was received into the Church of Rome The episode, before the outbreak of World War I, was a mark in British church history.

HOME LOST. Tamara Wilson, 8, weeps in the arms of an unidentified woman, after her home was partially destroyed in a fire which swept a cupboard mill at Burbank, Calif. Damage to the plans and Wilson home was estimated by firemen at $75,000.

Inside Labor

By Victor Riesel

THIS country is being railroaded out of a million dollars a year. And, since I'm not on the political beat, that kind of money isn't exactly petty cash to me.

Especially when it's being spent by the U. S. Army so that 12 colonels, operating under a brigadier-general, can each open one telegram per day as their wartime tour of duty. And especially when those telegrams say, in effect, that no one has stolen the nation's railroad tracks, the trains are running on time and the Navajos haven't captured the Super-Chief.

Victor Riesel

This all started back in August, 1950 when Mr. Truman ordered the Army to seize the railroads. Obeying its Commander-in-Chief, the Defense Department had the Army assign a brigadier-general, 12 colonels, 15 lt. colonels; 14 majors, one captain, three first lieutenants, one sergeant and eight clerks to "Operation Railroad."

The basic cost of this maneuver is $42,500 a month or $510,000 a year.

Since the colonels have cars, assistants, travel and other expenses, and the Pentagon must supervise the deadly paper work involved, it is estimated that at least another half a million has been spent since.

Just what is this "Operation Railroad?"

Every day, in each sector of the nation, each railroad dispatches to the colonel in charge of its region a wire saying all is peaceful. The colonel sees to it that this vital information swiftly makes it way to higher and, of course, more expensive echelons.

BUT ALL THAT goes up doesn't come down. Nothing is issued by the colonels to the railroads, which they ostensibly operate. Not one letter. No technical instructions. For the most part, the colonels feel silly. Most of them are the railroad presidents themselves. After being commissioned, they went out and bought uniforms, were assigned staff cars and chauffeurs—and were told to draw Army pay.

None of them needed the $6,840 a year. None of them wanted it. Col Ernest E. Norris, president of the Southern Railways System, one of the nation's top men in his field, draws $75,000 a year from his company. So does Col. R. H. Smith of the Norfolk and Western and Col. Robert S. McFarlane of the Northern Pacific.

They want neither their colonelcies, their uniforms, their Army pay checks nor their headaches. Apparently the Administration wants no headaches either. So for 14 months—and it may go on forever unless this has some effect—the Army has "run" the railroads in an assignment virtually forgotten by the public.

THERE HAVEN'T been any conferences. Leaders of the three unions which technically haven't settled their differences with the lines have been living in Washington's Hotel Hamilton for over a year, waiting for some word.

These union men, chiefs of the engineers, firemen and conductors, haven't heard from the White House since July. A few weeks ago they did get Senators Wayne Morse, Matthew Neely, Harley Kilgore, Herbert Lehman, William Langer and James Murray to go in and talk with Mr. Truman personally. He said he'd see what could be done. Apparently the President's staff is still looking—and the railroad executives and the union chiefs are still waiting.

Result? The railway unions won't do anything to prevent those daily telegrams from reporting peace on the rails, but they sure are waiting for the Presidential campaign.

However, we may not have to wait that long for action because of the failure of any dynamic labor policy to develop. Already militant union leaders, such as Walter Reuther, are saying publicly that this is a "phony seizure."

THIS SORT OF charge must not be ignored. It comes from the men who generally make national labor policy—and set the styles for action inside labor. It means that as the current wave of bitter strikes crashes into our war production schedules with terrifice and increasing intensity, Mr. Truman may be forced to seize steel mills, coal mines, gun plants, or jet pump and parts factories. Soon, too.

Already, unions whose loyalty to the government is unimpeachable are crippling gun production, tool flow and jet part assembly lines in showdown fights over wages, production speeds and the power a union will have inside a plant. Some of these battles will get tougher this winter and next spring.

If Mr. Truman tries to seize, he may find the unions won't order their men back because of what they call an effort to slap a "phony" peace on them, as in the million-dollar "Operation Railroad." They'll come to bury seizure, not to praise it as in the past.

Somebody had better whip up a national labor policy on short order.

Love Triumphant

By ADELE GARRISON

I rose at Dicky's summons and walked slowly to the telephone, marshaling the points of my father as I paced off the steps. When I took up the receiver, I was ready, and, with quick insistence, gave him the signal which would tell him I was using the code he long ago had written out for our use and which he had elaborated through the years of my association with his government work.

"Please listen carefully," I said, and his reply was the one for which I had cued him.

"I always do, to you," he told me, with a carefully contrived chuckle, and immediately I struck into the story of Mildred Grey's reaction to the costly outfit he expected her to wear at the coming New Haven festivity, of her decision to obey his command because she considered it her duty to her country, and of her resolve to quit the college, before the party, because of the effect her expensive outfit would have on her classmates and the school officers, whom she had told of her need for work and her inability to contribute much to the school's "extracurricular" activities.

He made no comment on my news — I expected none — and when I had finished he waited two full seconds, which trailed out as endlessly as so many hours, before he countered with a question.

"What time is your shopping trip tomorrow?" he asked.

"The shops do not open before nine," I told him. "I plan to be there as soon as they open."

"What time do you breakfast?" he asked next.

"At seven, because the boys are taking an early train."

"I would like to have breakfast with them," he said, "but I said my good-byes last night, and an early departure always means hurry. Will they be gone by eight-fifteen?"

"Oh, yes!"

"Then," he said with decision, "I shall be at your suite at that hour And I shall have a full and satisfactory answer to the problem. Will you please pass that assurance along tonight I do not wish anyone kept awake by worry."

I knew that he never made a promise without fulfilling it, and my relief so choked my voice that I found difficulty in answering him.

"As usual," I finally managed to say huskily, "you solve the problems. By the way Dicky is planning to go with the boys to the train, but they can go by themselves if you need him."

"But I don't," he said "I don't even need you. I wish to talk to but one person, and you know who that is. And now, good-bye, and stop worrying."

His receiver clicked with decision, and I turned to Dicky and told him of father's promise. He greeted the news with a long, low whistle.

"You have to slip it to him," he said. "I was pretty sure he'd find an answer to the problem — he always does—but I didn't think he'd latch onto it so quickly."

"What do you think his answer is?" I asked, and he grinned at me companionably.

"You have a very good notion of what he means," he said, "and so have I. But let's not do any guessing. Tell Mildred exactly what he said, and stress the point that he is quite a miracle worker when he takes the notion. That ought to keep her from tossing with insomnia all night."

N. Y. City Slickers Get $15,000

Missing Baby Sitters Found, Money Is Gone

NEW YORK, Oct. 20—(AP)—Roberta, Marilyn and Arlene are three little bobby-soxers who were baby-sitting just a few nights ago back in Nahant, Mass.

But they wanted to dance and wanted to see the big city—and they happened to stumble on a fortune that wasn't theirs.

So they took the money and came to the city: to shop on Fifth Avenue, to see the night spots, and to be grown up.

Everything was fine until they met three city slickers and later the local police. Now they are in jail and the money is gone. Their fairy tale has become a fable, a fable they might tell their diary.

According to police, each girl might tell of her adventure this way:

Roberta McCauley, 15, of Nahant— "Dear diary, Wednesday night, I was baby sitting at Dr. Albert Covner's. Marilyn and Arlene came over. Decided to dress ourselves grown-up-like in Mrs. Conver's dresses. Found box packed with bills, maybe $18,000 in all.

"Figured to get own clothes. Went to New York. We got hotel room. I bought lovely faille Christian Dior suit. Paid $235 for it. Visited best bar Thursday night. Met three fellows. Told them we had $15,000 in Grand Central locker.

Found Money Gone

"They disappeared. Later we found locker key and money gone. Met two other boys. Drinking and dancing. Went to hotel. I and one boy went to another hotel as man and wife.

"On Friday, still shopping. Police caught us. Reporters awfully curious. Police charge me with juvenile delinquency.

ROBERTA McCAULEY
In leading role of baby sitter escapade.

Nahant police come down to question me. But I don't want to go back. I can be good."

And Marilyn Curry, 16, of Lynn Mass., might have added: "Dear diary, Thursday, in New York with Roberta and Arlene. We all got snazzy cigaret cases. Got strapless cocktail gown. Lots of nice jewelry. Friday, police caught us, etc."

And Arlene Jeffries, 17, also of Lynn, might say this: "Dear diary, Thursday in New York. Bought a swell cocktail dress for $150. Dancing and drinking Thursday night. Friday at the police station, etc."

Arrested Yesterday

Police gave these accounts after the two girls were arrested yesterday along with Leo Cusson, 21, of Worcester, Mass., and Wayne Eckhardt, 24, of Grand Rapids, Mich.

The two men were picked up by the girls after they had been escorted to a few night clubs by three other men. But the trio disappeared, the girls said, along with $15,000 that was in the locker.

Police quoted Roberta as saying they took $18,000 in all from the doctor's house. They had $40 between them when they were arrested.

But Dr. Covner said he missed $24,000.

In addition to the juvenile delinquency charge against Roberta, Marilyn and Arlene were booked here as fugitives. Roberta and Marilyn face juvenile delinquency charges based on alleged larceny in Massachusetts; and Arlene, the oldest, is charged with larceny in Nahant.

Eckhardt was charged with impairing the morals of a minor. Cusson was booked on a rape charge.

Massachusetts police questioned the girls last night and planned to take them back. But all three said they didn't want to go home. Their reason:

"The boys wouldn't take us dancing—all they wanted to do was drive to a lonely place and park."

Tanks Smash Red-Held Kumsong

SEOUL, Korea, Oct. 20—(AP)—American tanks smashed into Red-held Kumsong today and blasted Communist targets there for one hour.

They returned to the main United Nations lines two miles south without a casualty despite heavy Red anti-tank and artillery fire.

A pooled dispatch said two companies of M-46 Patton tanks rumbled into the outskirts of the Reds' central front bastion.

Earlier Saturday Allied tanks probed to within a mile of the city and pounded it with high explosives.

About one mile to the south Allied infantrymen battled in wind and rain for the last major ridgeline below Kumsong. Some U.N. ground troops could look down into the town from high ground to the south. Kumsong is 30 miles north of the 38th Parallel.

An Allied briefing officer said the tanks were "exploring" the area. They pushed around a "C" shaped bend in the river and opened fire from the entrance to a valley that leads directly northward into Kumsong.

Southwest of Kumsong other Allied troops inched forward and captured a hill.

The Eighth Army communique said advancing U.N. units were 2,500 yards—less than a mile and a half—from Kumsong.

The general belief around Eighth Army Headquarters was that U.N. troops could take Kumsong if they wanted to. Whether Gen. James A. Van Fleet would order the city's capture immediately remained to be seen.

going again. The previous longest one-day session was three hours and 25 minutes.

AT REVENUE INQUIRY. Talking to House probers investigating corruption in the Internal Revenue Bureau is James Donovan (above), a Lawrence, Mass. attorney. He testified in Washington that former Boston Internal Revenue Collector Dennis Delaney received $3,000 for "social" introductions and free use of a beach cottage for helping a man in tax difficulties.

"Fix"

decay now has implicated at least 34 players from seven teams. The other schools involved are Bradley, Toledo, C.C.N.Y. Manhattan, Long Island, and New York U.

Vincent A. G. O'Connor, assistant district attorney of New York, interrogated Beard and Groza for seven hours after they were taken in custody at midnight while attending the annual all-star basketball game at Chicago Stadium.

In Lexington, Ky., B. A. Shiveley, University of Kentucky athletic director, said he was stunned. "Since early this morning, I have been telling myself that it can't be true," he said.

Dr. H. L. Donovan, president of the university, said in Lexington, "I had great faith in those boys and I don't want to say anything until I get the full story."

Rupp Disappears

Their Kentucky coach, Adolph Rupp, directed the collegian squad in the game, but later disappeared and could not be found for comment on the arrest of his two former stars.

O'Connor said Beard and Groza would admit only to receiving $500 together with Barnstaple to shave points of the Kentucky-Chicago Loyola contest, March 14, 1949, in Madison Square Garden. The N.I.T. tournament game was won by Loyola 67-56 in a surprising upset.

Groza and Beard, who were to be arraigned in Cook County criminal court at 11 a.m., C.S.T., today and then taken to New York, were picked up last night along with teammates Cliff Baker and Joe Holland.

State's Attorney John S. Boyle of Chicago, who sat in at the questioning, said Groza and Beard cleared the other two of any taint in the fixing.

All four, along with another former Kentucky great, Wallace (Wah Wah) Jones, are now members and stockholders of the Indianapolis Olympians of the National Basketball Association, a pro club they organized after graduating.

O'Connor said Groza and Beard were confronted at the grilling by Nick "The Greek" Englisis and Nate Brown, two payoff men under indictment by the New Yook grand jury for bribery in other fixes.

Conflicting Report

O'Connor said the two gamblers appeared voluntariily and gave a conflicting report.

"The fixers insisted the payoff in the Kentucky-Loyola game was $2,000, with Groza getting $1,000 and the other two $500 each," said O'Connor. "The gamblers said the only other point shaving was in the Kentucky-Tennessee game at Lexington, in 1949. But Groza and Beard would not admit to any fixing except in the Loyola game."

Many experts thought Rupp's finest teams during his 21 years of coaching Kentucky were those of 1948 and 1949. The backbone of the flawless champions was formed by the 6 foot 7 inch Groza from Martins Ferry, O., and the peppery 5 foot 10 inch Beard from Louisville.

In March, 1948, these two players guided the Wildcats to the N.C.A.A. title in Madison Square Garden. Beard that year won All-America honors while Groza was placed on the second team.

After the N.C.A.A. victory, Kentucky joined forces with the Phillips Oilers, A.A.U. champions, to take the Olympic championship at London.

Repeats Victory

In 1949 at Seattle, Kentucky repeated as N.C.A.A. titlist with Groza slamming in 25 points in a 46-36 victory over Oklahoma A. & M. in the final game.

Groza, for the second successive year, was chosen the outstanding player of the N.C.A.A. tournament and joined Beard in being named to the All-America team.

Groza and Beard became household words and idols of youthful cagers throughout the country. Upon graduating, they bought the Indianapolis pro franchise and became playing stockholders with teammates Jones, Barker and Holland for their N.B.A. team, the Olympians.

They stopped in Chicago last night enroute to Moline, Ill., where the Olympians have an exhibition game scheduled tonight against Milwaukee.

Rare First Edition Turns Up in Utah

SALT LAKE CITY — (UP) — What is believed to be the fourth copy in existence of the first edition of The Boston News-Letter, first regular newspaper in the United States, has turned up here.

Belt Dailey, 78-year-old son of a pioneer Utah family, discovered the glass encased edition in an old family Bible. The copy is dated April 17-24, 1704.

Dailey said he believed the volume was brought by his parents when they crossed the plains in a covered wagon in 1850 and was left with him when they returned to Illinois 59 years ago.

Prof. Quintus C. Wilson, head of the University of Utah journalism department, said "the sky would be the limit" on what a collector or historical society would pay for a genuine first edition copy. He said even if it is a reprint of the original, it would still be quite valuable as a collector's item.

Fear Color TV Halted For 2 Years At Least

Defense Ban On Production Covers Period of Emergency

WASHINGTON, Oct. 20—(AP)—You can forget all about the big color television controversy—there is not going to be any color TV for the duration of the emergency.

A defense order calling for an immediate halt in color TV production was disclosed yesterday. It had these effects:

1. Indefinite postponement of color television for the public. Industry estimates ran for two years up.

2. If you have been wondering whether your black-and-white set is going to be the mode for very much longer, or whether to buy black-and-white or wait for color, your problem is solved.

3. Before the ban is off, new color TV systems may be invented, or those in development perfected, thus perhaps setting right back where it began the long controversy over what kind of color TV the government should approve.

4. Whatever kind or kinds of color television eventually reach the market will probably be better than anything offered today.

CBS Hit

At present, the Columbia Broadcasting System (CBS) holds the only license for making color TV. The Federal Communications Commission gave the CBS the nod just a year ago. The Supreme Court upheld the FCC last spring and in June CBS began color telecasts from New York.

It bought out an existing television set manufacturer and began making CBS color TV sets. Other companies were getting in production, using CBS patents. It was estimated 50,000 color sets would reach the public in 1951.

Mobilization director Charles E. Wilson revealed yesterday he had written to CBS president Frank Stanton, asking him to suspend production immediately. In New York, Stanton said he promised compliance. CBS said its last color telecast for the durtion would be today's Maryland-North Carolina football game.

To Conserve Materials

Wilson told newsmen he acted to conserve materials and release "highly skilled electronics engineers for important military projects." Wilson said defense production, now climbing toward a peak, demands suspension of mass production of any new products "not absolutely essential and which would require the use of critical materials."

The color TV freeze, he said, will continue until there is enough material to go around.

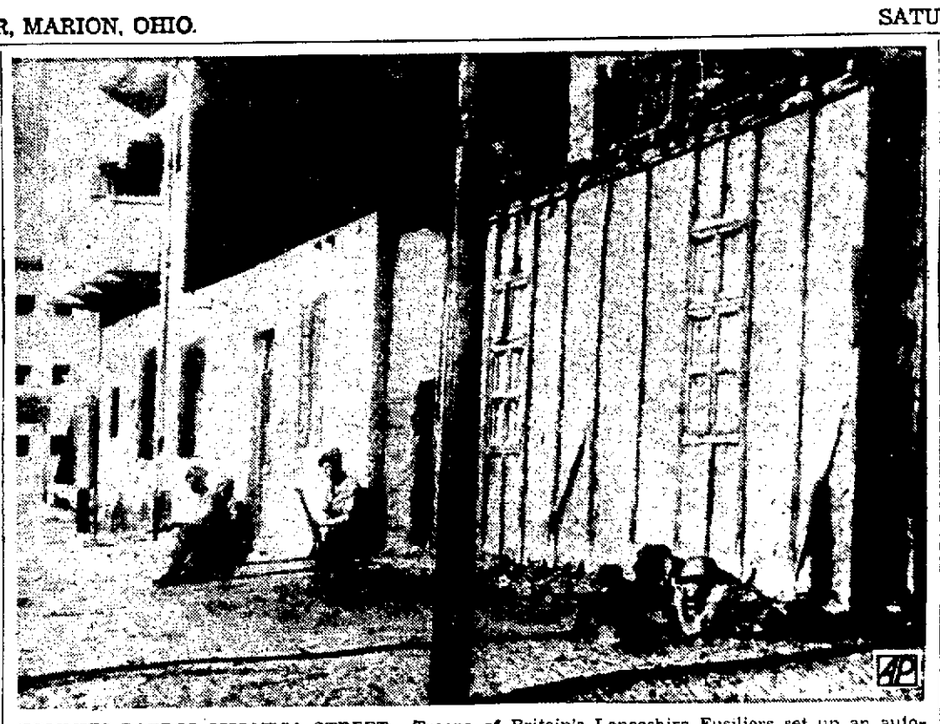
LAMP BLACK BLACKS OUT FIREMEN. Firemen dashed to a warehouse fire along Philadelphia's waterfront and wound up with faces dirtier and blacker than usual—the warehouse was stocked with lamp black. The black powder soon spread to firemen and these five fire fighters look like minstrels as they pour water on the blaze.



TOMMIES PATROL ISMAILIA STREET. Troops of Britain's Lancashire Fusiliers set up an automatic rifle and stand guard in downtown Ismailia, Suez Canal Zone city which has been scene of rioting and clashes between Tommies and Egyptian soldiers. The strife is an outgrowth of a dispute between British and Egyptian governments concerning control of canal zone and Anglo-Egyptian Sudan.

Woman Dies

All three vehicles were damaged extensively.

Mrs. Wagner and Buxton were thrown from the car. Bellevue state highway patrolmen report that Mrs. Wagner was apparently run over by one of the vehicles. Her death was attributed to a crushed chest and a fractured neck.

The body was taken to the Wise Funeral Home in Bucyrus and was removed today to Celina where funeral services will be held.

Buxton was taken to Bucyrus City Hospital by the Wise ambulance. He was severely cut on the scalp and shoulder. His condition taday was reported as "good."

Zella Rigdon was treated at the hospital for cuts of the left knee and body bruises, and released.

Buxton was arrested for failure to stop at a stop sign and was cited to appear Oct. 22 in Bucyrus Mayor's Court.

Govt. Takes Hand In N.Y. Dock Strike

NEW YORK, Oct. 20—(AP)—Federal authorities prepared today to shoulder the burden of solving New York's paralyzing wildcat dock strike as rebel stevedores moved to spread their walkout.

The five-day strike had hit 90 piers and 55 of 149 ships in Manhattan and Brooklyn by last night. Some defense shipping for Korea and other military outposts still was curtailed.

Incoming vessels were going to piers at Staten Island and New Jersey, but the longshoremen called a mass meeting today (1 p. m. E.S.T.), reportedly to extend their movement.

Leaders of the strikers said they would tie up the whole vast New York-New Jersey port by Monday morning in their efforts to reopen contract negotiations with eastern shipping concerns.

At the request of city officials, the Federal Mediation Service stepped into the dispute last night.

Egypt Defiant As British Reinforce Suez

CAIRO, Egypt, Oct. 20—(AP)—Egypt maintained her defiance of Britain today with words and small deeds—but her armed forces carefully kept out of range of strong British forces dug in along the strategic Suez Canal.

From Cyprus came word that the British garrison on the island was completely stripped to reinforce the 40,000 Tommies in Egypt with a full brigade of parachute troops. The last 2,000 troops on Cyprus left for Egypt today.

A British military spokesman said in Cairo there were no incidents in the canal area over night.

In Cairo, Egyptian officials delivered a formal protest note accusing Britain of "endangering peace in the Middle East" and blaming her for Wednesday's predawn battle at the El Ferdan bridge over the canal. Two Egyptian soldiers were killed in the battle.

HELD FOR QUESTIONING

NEW YORK, Oct. 20—(AP)—Police, acting on a woman's tip, disclosed today that they were holding an unidentified man for questioning in the slaying of gambler Willie Moretti, talkative senate crime committee witness. They said the woman claimed to have driven the man and two others to Cliffside, N. J., and that she saw them meet the gambler just before he was shot to death on Oct. 4.

WEATHER HAMPERS SEARCH

WESTOVER AIR FORCE BASE, Mass., Oct. 18—(AP)—Five Air Force bombers maneuvered in dangerous weather today—sometimes flying "blind" — in a race against storms to search for 11 airmen missing four days after a flight from the Azores. Increasing winds and rain swept into the search area about 1,000 miles east of Cape Cod. Another 85 search planes were unable to take off, Westover officials said.

New Business Begun In Old Age Clicks

WORCESTER, Mass.—(UP)—At 71 most folks are giving thought to retirement.

Charles A. Stewart is not. He's worrying about keeping creases in the nation's trousers.

In 1946 Stewart, a successful business man, started a new business, that of manufacturing a trousers hanger and creaser.

Before the company had completed its first production run, a nationally-known mail order house had ordered 75,000. Soon jobbers, sales agents and other mail order houses were looking for the hangers. Stewart has 15 persons busily turning them out.

It was 38 years ago that Stewart first went into business making a stitching awl for use on heavy leather and canvas. During 25 years he never had a salesman. He had four persons busy assembling the awls and he did the selling. They all made an excellent living.

The awl business still was going strong when Stewart started his new concern. During the past three years his now business has increased seven times and now he plans to add several other lines including a stainless-steel mixing spoon that hooks on cooking utensils, and a special tie rack.

Stewart laughs when talking of his initial business venture, recalling that bankers said he couldn't make a go of it.

Bloodmobile Visits Marion Next Week

Critical Shortage Brings New Drive By Red Cross

An urgent call for blood donors is being made by the Marion chapter of Red Cross as in communities across the nation. This community is asked to provide 160 donors for each day the Bloodmobile Unit is in Marion, a comparatively small demand, it was stated. The Unit will be in Marion Thursday, going to the Marion Power Shovel Co. at 11 a.m. for a visit there until 5 p.m. Friday, it will be at the Blood Center at First Presbyterian Church from noon until 6 p.m.

Information from American Red Cross headquarters is that the need for blood plasma is critical, stockpiles are gone, and contributions are down. "A pint of your blood may save a life. Phone 2-1653 for an appointment," local unit workers say.

Launch Drive

From the national offices comes the word that recognition of the situation, the blood-plasma crisis, is "launching the nation on its biggest blood-donor drive since World War II.

It is pointed out in challenging potential blood donors to contribute, that the armed forces have used up their plasma reserve. Medical need for blood is growing, yet donations are dropping.

Defense leaders say it could mean many lives lost. They are calling on the public to do something about it—quickly."

The Defense Department has set a goal of 2.8 millions pints of blood by next summer, 300,000 pints monthly. The need is so urgent even military personnel are being asked to give—the first time the armed forces have collected blood here at home in their history.

The three-fold reason for this is, World War II plasma stockpiles are gone. Americans gave more than 13 million pints of their blood during the war, and much dried plasma was left. But most was released to civilian hospitals. The rest has been used up in Korea.

70,000 Casualties

"More blood than ever is needed. The armed forces have suffered more than 70,000 killed and wounded in Korea. But the rate of deaths among the wounded has been cut from 4 per 100 in World War II to 2.6 per 100, partly because of the use of more blood. More blood is being used in hospitals at home.

"Too few people are giving. Last December, when things were going badly in Korea, people at home gave 110,000 pints of blood through the Red Cross to the Defense Department. But in July, with armistice talks in progress, they gave less than 40,000, hardly more than a tenth of the armed forces' need.

"While that much is not needed now in Korea, much more could be needed, and suddenly, military leaders are worried not merely about Korea, but even more about a new or bigger war. The armed forces could need every bit of a 2.8 million pint reserve in an atom war, even more.

"The 300,000-a-month goal for the new plasma reserve doesn't even touch the problem of a stock pile for civil defense. A much greater reserve by at least 7 million pints must start building before long, to safeguard civilians."

Giant Wrestlers Return in Japan

TOKYO — (UP) — Japanese sumo, the sport of topknot freak Japanese giants, soon will enjoy again the "golden era" that brought unfailing sellouts at arenas in the pre-war days.

In the doldrums in the last two years of the war and the immediate post-war years, the sport has staged a remarkable comeback within the past 18 months. Daily sellouts with crowds exceeding the 20,000 mark featured the last "summer championship" 15-day meet in Tokyo.

Promotion of 24-year-old Chiyonoyama, a 250-pound giant who won the tournament with 14 victories and one defeat, to the rank of "yokozuna"—a grand champion—will bring prosperity to the sport, in the opinion of sumo experts.

They point that the next tourney in January will feature the presence of four grand champions. The others are 350-pound Azumafuji, 325-pound Terukuni and 300-pound Haguroyama, Chiyonoyama was the 41st wrestler to be named a yokozuna in Japanese sumo annals.

Once a wrestler becomes a grand champion, he will not be demoted in contrast to the others whose rankings depend upon their showing in the tourneys. However, if he loses a bit too much in the opinion of the sumo directors, a yokozuna will be forced to retire lest this rank suffer loss of prestige.

Musical Notes

by Gene Shellhorn

Music has charms to accomplish a lot of good works. Sometimes it does a selling job where a long rigamarol of just plain chatter fails. Witness the vast number of singing jingles that have amused, entertained and sometimes annoyed folks on the radio and television.

We've just learned that two new tunes have been specially composed and recorded to "theme song" the 1951 Community Chest Campaign You'll undoubtedly be hearing the U S. Red Feather March and the catchy GIVE YOUR BEST TO THE COMMUNITY CHEST.

We hope you'll not only listen to them . . . but that you'll contribute as much as you can to the works of this great organization. There's no better way to prove our democratic way of life. Give . . . one to another . . . for the benefit of all through the Community Chest.

Give your youngsters the priceless gift of music. It costs so little and mean so much now and in the future. For instance . . . you can select a finer Selmer, Olds or Martin band instrument and pay on convenient terms here. You'll never miss those monthly payments. So bring the world of music into your home. We're here to help you at SHELLHORN'S, 184 S. Main . . . for everything musical. Phone 2-2713.

BAD SLEEPING POSTURE

Caused by Improper Sagging Worn-Out Mattresses

OFTEN CAUSES BACK-ACHE!

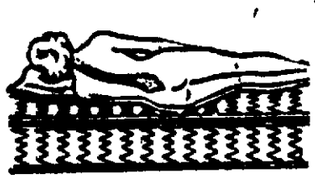
AND AGGRAVATES MANY AILMENTS

Your spinal column is vital. It cannot be twisted or forced out of line for periods of time without damaging effect to your health and well-being. You cannot control your sleeping posture without the assistance of the proper mattress.

THIS CAUSES BACK-ACHES!

Notice how the spinal column is twisted on a soft sagging mattress! A sagging mattress causes curvature of the spine because of improper support of the heavier parts of the body.

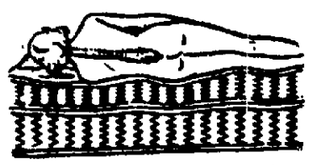
BEDBOARD IS NO ANSWER!



Using a bedboard is like putting your mattress on the floor. The mattress still sags — in fact, it completely collapses under the heaviest portions of the body because the bedboard prevents the supporting action of the box spring.

SEALY POSTUREPEDIC GIVES RELIEF!

Notice the straight line of the spine! You get FIRM, comfortable support on a Sealy Posturepedic Mattress. All parts of the body, regardless of weight, are properly supported. The mattress and the special foundation work together to give you a sleeping posture doctors recommend and the relaxing comfort you desire!



YOU'LL SAY: "IT'S WONDERFUL" TO SLEEP AND AWAKE REFRESHED

Testimonials reveal that the Sealy Posturepedic Mattress gives correct "firm" sleeping support and provides the necessary relaxation, beneficial to the following ailments.

1. Arthritis of the spine is favored by the firm special support of this comfortable posturizing mattress.
2. Weakened hearts are aided when rest is possible without the strains of unnatural sleeping positions.
3. Asthma sufferers can enjoy all night comfortable sleep when the lung cavity is not compressed by body distortion that impairs breathing.

Recruiter Signs 200th Man in Year

Breaks Record For Army and Air Force Enlistments in Ohio

The U. S. Army and Air Force Recruiting headquarters at Columbus today announced that T/Sgt. Darwin A. Lillie, commander of the local recruiting station, had broken all state Army and Air Force Recruiting records.

This announcement followed the enlisting of his 200th man during 1951.

Roy Richard "Dick" Huddle was the 200th enlistee signed up by Sgt. Lillie. He was sworn into the Air Force Thursday at Fort Hayes in Columbus. The new enlistee and his wife, the former Miss Iris Rae Eckels, resided at 165½ East Columbia street. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Huddle of 868 Sheridan road.

Harding Athlete

Huddle is a graduate of Harding High School in the class of 1948. While at Harding he earned seven varsity letters in athletics. Following his graduation from high school, Huddle enrolled at Miami University where he studied physical education and business education. Prior to enlisting, he was employed as a shovel repairman for the Osgood Co.

Capt. Roy Gray, commander of the district recruiting headquarters at Columbus, reported Sgt. Lillie has produced 582 enlistments during his three-year period of recruiting in Marion. At the beginning of 1951, he set a goal of 200 men for the 12-month period. Huddle's enlistment reached that mark with two and a half months of the period remaining. That mark tops all records in the Ohio-Kentucky recruiting district, Capt. Gray said.

Served in Europe

Sgt. Lillie entered the Army in July, 1942. During World War II, he served with the Eighth Air Force in the European Theater for a three-year period. In 1948, he entered the recruiting service and has been stationed in Marion since that time. He and his wife, along with their two daughters, reside in Delaware.

The local recruiting station at 188 South Main street has enlisted 253 men since last Jan. 1. Capt. Gray called this an "outstanding number" of enlistments for a city the size of Marion.

Sgt. Lillie is assisted at the station by Cpl. Thomas H. Turner, a native of Delaware. He already has enlisted his 53rd man since being assigned to the local station in March. Before coming here, Cpl. Turner was stationed at the district headquarters in Columbus. Cpl. and Mrs. Turner, the former Jeanene Blue of Richwood, now live at 280 West Center street. Prior to being assigned recruiting duty, Cpl. Turner spent two years with the signal corps in the Caribbean command. Both Sgt. Lillie and Cpl. Turner said enlistments were still pouring in at the Marion station.

Taxes

brackets have an option of continuing to pay taxes at present rates, and adding on an extra payment amounting to 9 percent of the income remaining after payment of the tax. This alternate method benefits single persons with incomes of $28,000 or more a year, and married couples above $57,600.

Excise Boosts

Here are some of the principal excise boosts:

Whisky, gin, brandy and other hard liquor from $9 to 100-proof gallon to $10.50. Beer from $8 to $9 a barrel. Wine up an average of 12½ percent.

Cigarets up from 7 cents a pack to 8 cents. Gasoline from 1½ to 2 cents a gallon.

Automobiles increased from 7 to 10 percent on manufacturers' price. Trucks and buses, from 5 to 8 percent.

Electric dishwachers, electric garbage disposal units, power lawnmowers and other items of household equipment put under a 10 percent manufacturers' tax.

Fountain pens, mechanical pencils, cigaret lighters will be taxed 15 percent of the manufacturers' price.

There will be a new 10 percent tax on the gross receipts of bookmakers and lottery operators, including persons engaged in the numbers racket. This one promises to be an enforcement headache for the Internal Revenue Bureau.

Telephone Tax Down

In a few cases, excise taxes were cut or abolished. The tax on telegrams goes down from 25 to 15 percent of the charge. Smoking and chewing tobacco will be taxed 10 cents a pound instead of 18. Baby oils and powders come out from the 20 percent retail tax.

Homeowners who sell their dwellings will not be taxed on any profit they may receive, provided they reinvest the gain in a new personal residence within a year of the date of sale. This provision is retroactive to last Jan. 1.

The bill provides two principal increases for corporations. The regular tax rate will go up from 25 to 30 percent in income under $25,000, and from 47 to 52 percent on all over that amount. This provision takes effect as of April 1, 1951. A second, burden is an increase in the percentage of corporate income subject to the excess profits tax. After July 1, 1951, all income in excess of 83 percent of a company's average profits for the best three of the four years 1946 through 1949 will be taxed as excess profits. The present provision taxes all over 85 percent.

Other Features

Other features of the bill include an increase in the maximum rate of the capital gains tax from 25 to 26 percent; applying corporation tax rates to farm cooperatives, mutual savings bank and building and loan associations; and extension of tax relief to fighting men in combat zones.

One controversial, non-revenue feature remains in the bill. This forbids the federal government from denying social security aid to states, such as Indiana, which throw open their relief rolls for public inspection.

Star Route Set From Marion To Cleveland

Plans have been announced by the United States Postal Transportation Service for setting up motor truck service, known as a Star Route, between Cleveland and Marion, effective Nov. 12.

Bids now are being accepted for a temporary contract which will be awarded to the lowest responsible bidder and will extend to and include June 30, 1952. Sometime in May, 1952, bids will be taken again and a contract duly awarded on a permanent basis to the lowest responsible bidder.

The bid forms can be obtained at the office of the Marion postmaster, Homer Cole.

The Star Route, which will make stops at Wooster, Ashland, Mansfield and Mt. Gilead, between here and Cleveland, is being set up because of possible cancelations of trains between the two cities.

Bids for the service must be submitted at a rate per annum, it is pointed out. In arriving at an annual rate, consideration must be given to the extra service which will be required at Christmas. An additional trip is usually required, each day, from Dec. 15 to 24, inclusive. This additional service should be added to the regular service in arriving at the amount of bid.

Township Teams Organized For Community Chest Drive

Towns and township teams are organized for a countywide coverage in the Marion County Red Feather Community Chest drive, launched this week to carry on the work of the Marion Community Foundation through 1952.

This year the county is asked to raise $2,932.92, or three percent of the countywide quota of $97,764. In 1944, the records show, residents of the county outside of Marion contributed $7,419.59, or 7.4 percent of the $99,089 goal.

Million-Dollar Business

Ohio Brothers Cash In With Peace-Model Toys

CINCINNATI — A POST-WAR problem of finding toys other than miniature weapons of war has been turned into a million-dollar business by two Cincinnati brothers.

The idea developed just before Christmas of 1945 when the mother of Charles W. and Frederick W. Doepke complained she couldn't find any toys for her grandchildren except guns, airplanes, tanks and other miniature weapons.

The brothers rescued some old toys and put them in working order.

At that time they were looking for business for their small machine shop which had produced ammunition containers and tank tread pins during the war, so they went to work on their idea — toys which would encourage the constructive attitudes of children.

THE DOEPKES turned to construction equipment — the kind contractors use in building roads, dams, airports and bridges. They enlisted the aid of manufacturers of such actual equipment and received permission to work from their blueprints.

Their first product was a model earth hauler and in 1946 they produced 32,000 of them. By 1947 they had to move from their small plant into a new building in suburban Rossmoyne. Last year they produced 237,000 model toys. Their products now include a road grader, bucket loader, clam shell crane, dump truck and an aerial ladder fire truck. Every model is scaled and built exactly like the real thing.

Last year the Doepkes used 2,500,000 pounds of steel. They bought more than a million miniature rubber tires from regular automobile concerns.

THEIR PLANT resembles an automotive factory in miniature. There is a quarter mile long assembly line and a service department where junior's toys are repaired.

The Doepkes never produce more than five different models at one time. As interest wanes in one item, it is discarded in favor of a new piece of miniature construction equipment. The newest one is a heilliner—a combination earth scraper and hauler. It was brought into production only a few weeks ago.

Youngsters who have the toys also receive an "operator's license" or "construction permit" signed by the "mayor of Modeltown, U.S.A."

Defense Head Appeals For Blood Donors

Red Cross Unit Will Be in Marion Oct. 25 and 26

In anticipation of the October visit of the Red Cross Bloodmobile Unit here on the 25th and 26th, and in response to an appeal made by Robert A. Lovett, secretary of defense, for blood for the men in the armed forces, the local Red Cross chapter is making a plea for donors on these dates.

The unit will be at the Marion Power Shovel Co. plant Oct. 25, and at the blood center in the recreation room of the First Presbyterian Church Oct. 26. The hours are from 12 noon to 6 p.m. Marion County's quota is 160 donors and 125 pints of blood. Appointments may be made by calling the Red Cross Chapter office, 2-1653.

The appeal made by Mr. Lovett follows:

"As secretary of defense, it is my duty, especially to our fighting men in Korea, to urge every American to participate in the Armed Forces Blood Donor Program.

"A wounded man suffering from shock needs blood or blood plasma. Since these life savers were first used on battlefields and in hospitals behind the lines, the mortality rate of wounded men has steadily declined. None of our wounded must die or have their recovery impeded because whole blood or plasma is not available to him.

"We have reached a blood crisis. The need is urgent, the need is now. The conflict in Korea has exhausted our reserve. Donations must average 300,000 pints of blood each month. The donations during this past July were only 40,000 pints which is 260,000 pints less than needed.

"I appeal to every American—visit your local Red Cross Chapter Blood Center and offer your blood to save the lives of our wounded men.

"We need almost eight times as much blood as we are now receiving. I have faith that we will not fail to reach this goal."

Black was the favorite color for automobiles during the depression years. The trend today is toward lighter colors for passenger cars.

PREVIEWS OF COMING ATTRACTIONS AT THE THEATERS

Navy Film Billed At Marion Drive-In

"You're In the Navy Now" starring Gary Cooper and Jane Greer and featuring Millard Mitchell and Eddie Albert, will be shown Sunday through Tuesday at the Marion Drive-In Theater.

Giving the viewers a behind-the-scenes glimpse of what the United States Navy is and does, "You're In the Navy Now" is concerned with the Navy's "90-day wonders" and the struggles with a top-secret projectile tried out with sub-chasers in World War II.

Billed for Wednesday and Thursday is the hilarious comedy, "Francis Goes to the Races" starring Donald O'Connor, Piper Laurie and Francis, the talking mule.

The film finds O'Connor and Francis becoming attached to an expensive racing stable quartered at the famous Santa Anita race track and the amazing mule, by talking to the turf equines, is able to furnish his master with all the winners. O'Connor becomes involved with a gang of racing racketeers, but Francis comes to the rescue.

Friday and Saturday, the film "Intrigue" starring George Raft and June Havoc will be the attraction.

"Master Minds" One Of State Features

"Master Minds" starring Leo Gorcey and the Bowery Boys, and "Streets of Ghost Town" with Charles Starrett and Smiley Burnette, will be shown Sunday and Monday at the State Theater.

Billed for Tuesday and Wednesday are "State Penitentiary" and "Rogue River. The former stars Warner Baxter and Onslow Stevens, and heading the cast in the latter are Rory Calhoun and Peter Graves.

Jean Rogers and Richard Travis are the stars of the film, "Backlash," which will be the main attraction of a double feature playing Thursday through Friday. Completing the billing will be "Indian Territory" starring Gene Autry and his horse, Champion.

Saturday only, the double feature will include "Tobacco Road" with an all-star cast, and "Lone Star Pioneer" starring Wild Bill Elliott.

BURT LANCASTER is starred in the title role and Phyllis Thaxter plays a supporting role in the film, "Jim Thorpe—All American," which now is playing through Sunday at the New Ohio Theater.

"Cyrano de Bergerac" At Palace Sunday

"Cyrano de Bergerac," the tragic comedy of a warrior-poet-lover whose deeds were as epic as his nose, opens a three-day showing Sunday at the Palace Theater, now at popular prices. Jose Ferrer, the star, won the Academy Award for his portrayal of the title role.

Co-starred with Ferrer in the film is Mala Powers, who is seen in the role of Cyrano's beautiful young cousin, Roxane.

Jose Ferrer gives a remarkable performance of the 17th Century poet who loved his young cousin, the beautiful Roxane, with all the ardor of his great heart, but, because of his disfiguring nose, never made this love known to her. Instead, he wrote her impassioned love letters which were sent to her in the name of Christian, the young, inarticulate soldier she thought she loved, and who wooed her with Cyrano's poetry and prose.

Seen in the role of Christian in the picture is William Prince.

Billed for Wednesday and Thursday is the musical production, "Mr. Imperium," co-starring Lana Turner and Ezio Pinza, the famed former star of "South Pacific." Playing supporting roles are Marjorie Main, Barry Sullivan, Sir Cedric Hardwicke and Debbie Reynolds. Filmed in technicolor, the film presents such outstanding song hits as "My Love and My Mule," "You Belong To My Heart," "Let Me Look at You" and 'Andiamo."

A new technicolor western, "The Lady From Texas," starring Howard Duff, Mona Freeman and Josephine Hull, will be the attraction Friday and Saturday.

The story concerns the efforts of Duff and Miss Freeman to save Miss Hull, a widowed ranch owner, from being adjudged insane so that her property can be sold by unscrupulous promoters to a railroad for its right-of-way.

Abbott and Costello Star in Marion Films

Two Abbott and Costello films, "Buck Privates" and "In the Navy," will be shown Sunday and Monday at the Marion Theater.

The former, in which the Andrews Sisters are featured, relates the experiences of Bud Abbott and Lou Costello in the Army. The latter, which features Dick Powell along with the Andrews Sisters, has the two comedians portraying gobs who are in love with the Andrews Sisters and constantly in trouble.

Billed for Tuesday and Wednesday are "The Tall Target" and "The Sword of Monte Cristo." The former stars Dick Powell, Paula Raymond and Adolphe Menjou, and heading the cast in the latter, produced in supercinecolor, are George Montgomery and Paula Corday.

The story in "The Tall Target tells of a plot to assassinate President-elect Abraham Lincoln enroute to Washington for his inauguration in 1861. Dick Powell is seen in the role of a New York police detective who resigns his post with the force in an attempt to foil the plot single-handed. The latter picture tells a tale of nineteenth century adventure in France.

The attractions Thursday through Saturday will be "Roadblock" starring Charles McGraw and Joan Dixon, and "Cyclone Fury" with Charles Starrett.

In "Roadblock," an honest, hard-working man turns crook to plot a million dollar robbery.

Next Sunday and Monday, the double feature will include "South of Caliente" starring Roy Rogers and his famous horse, Trigger, and "Pardon Us" with Laurel and Hardy.

Jim Thorpe Movie Playing at New Ohio

Based on the life of one of the most world-popular athletes of all time, "Jim Thorpe — All American," currently is playing through Sunday at the New Ohio Theater. Burt Lancaster stars in the title role Thorpe at one time lived in Marion County, at LaRue.

The movie version of his life is as follows:

Raised on a small western ranch, Indian lad Jim Thorpe spent his boyhood running and jumping across fields and streams. He then entered Carlisle Indian School in Pennsylvania where he launched a career and under the guidance of Coach "Pop" Warner became a track star. But, wanting to impress the girl he later was to marry, played by Phyllis Thaxter, he went out for football and soon became the star halfback of the nation.

Later, denied a coaching job, he entered the Olympics and drove himself to great victory, but hard luck pursued him and he gradually hit the skids. It was "Pop" Warner who brought him back, and when one day a group of youngsters in a sandlot asked an on-looking truck driver to become their coach, Jim Thorpe knew he'd found his life's work.

Showing Monday through Wednesday will be a double feature, "Missing Daughters," and "Underage."

Thursday through Saturday, the attraction will be a technicolor film, "Little Egypt" starring Mark Stevens and Rhonda Fleming, with Nancy Guild and Charles Drake.

The film is concerned with a seductive Egyptian dancer who invaded the Chicago Columbian Exposition in 1893 and created a national sensation with her hootchy-kootchy dance.

JOSE FERRER, ACADEMY AWARD WINNER, plays the title role, a 17th Century poet-swordsman-philosopher, in the romantic film, "Cyrano de Bergerac," which opens Sunday at the Palace Theater, now at popular prices. It will continue through Tuesday.

Underrated Richwood Hands St. Mary 3rd Loss, 6-0

Through the SPORTSCOPE with A. L. McCLAIN

FAVORITE STORY. Our favorite football yarn to come out this season is the one on the water boy who became a football hero for William and Mary.

We like it principally because it proves that when the mind is willing the flesh is not always weak.

And it should give incentive to slim youngsters who think they must weigh at least 160 pounds to fit into shoulder and hip pads.

Another reason we like it is because here in Marion we have several "lightweights" playing outstanding games for Harding and St Mary. Doug Bibler and Jim Chapman of the Presidents, and Dave Carr and Dan "Butch" Merchant of the Fighting Irish won't chase any pedestrians off the sidewalks with their size.

"HADACOL" HINES. When Lloyd Quimby Hines entered William and Mary last season he wanted to play football. The coach looked at his 135-pound frame and decided here was the man they were looking for—as water boy.

He was promptly nicknamed "Hadacol" and began carrying buckets of water. But between loads of water he took to practicing the kicking of extra points. Nobody paid any attention to him. Nobody would even hold the ball.

They began to take notice when the youngster became adept at kicking the ball squarely between the uprights consistantly. He didn't miss a single kick his freshman year, hitting 13 for 13, and adding three field goals for good measure in intersquad games.

Advanced to the varsity this season he has seen action in all the Tribe's first three games. He has made six of the seven tries, one being blocked.

Hines doesn't even wear shoulder pads.

AFTERNOON OF GLORY. Last Saturday he really "arrived" as one of the team's brightest stars. With time running out in the third quarter, William and Mary tied the score 6-6. Their specialist was rushed into the game where he calmly booted the extra point. His team won the game, 7-6, over Wake Forest.

But even more outstanding about young Hines' accomplishment is this: he still serves as water boy.

Between rushing water for his bigger teammates, he manages to go off to one side of the field and practice his kicks. . . .

We liked the story so well we had to pass it on.

Claridon Tops Caledonia, 28-8

Ray Price spearheaded a Claridon homecoming attack last night as Coach Herb Bennett's Claridon Hornets downed Caledonia, 28-8.

The chunky Hornet back scored on runs of 50, 51 and 10 yards and passed to Jack Griffiths for a fourth TD. The winners raced to 14 points in the first period, added eight in the second and six in the third.

Caledonia's only score came in the final frame when Jim Kirk hit John Boger with a 20-yard pass. Kirk added the conversion.

It was the fifth straight win for the Hornets. They will meet Johnsville for the Double-M League championship next Saturday night at Mt. Gilead.

ASHLEY, Oct 20—With Quarterback Dick Howard running wild, Elm Valley had little trouble whipping Big Walnut, 51-6 here last night.

Howard raced to five touchdowns as he directed the Elm Valley jaugernaut to its fifth win without a loss. The locals scored first when Big Walnut fumbled the opening kickoff. In three plays, Chuck Martin hit paydirt from the 10. Howard plunged over tackle and went 30 yards for the second TD. In the second period, Howard raced around end for 60 yards and Don Redd scored on a six-yard plunge.

Howard added two TD's in the third frame on end runs of 10 and 22 yards. His final score came in the fourth when he sneaked over from the 1. He boosted his point total to 32 with two extra points. Jack McGrath scored the final touchdown when he gathered in a 45-yard pass from Redd.

Baski Needs 54 Seconds To Beat Italian

NEW YORK, Oct. 20—(AP)—"If Jersey Joe Walcott can do it, so can I," said comebacking Joe Baksi today as he aimed for the heavyweight big time once more

Comebacks and rosy plans are old stuff for the strapping ex-coal miner from Kulpmont, Pa., who started off his latest campaign by flattening pudgy Gino Buonvino of Italy in 54 seconds of the first round of a main 10 in St. Nicholas Arena last night.

A couple of left hooks to the jaw shook Gino, a right to the stomach and a left to the jaw staggered him, and another left hook to the jaw dropped the Italian for the full count. Baksi was a 3 to 1 favorite.

Lone TD Scored By Tigers' Perkins

By JOHN SHORT

The Richwood Tigers, probably the most under-rated grid team in this area, stunned St. Mary 6-0 last night at Harding Stadium before 813 fans.

The Tigers scored early in the opening frame and fought off all Irish advances until the final gun. The score came when Richwood gained possession for the first time.

After taking a St. Mary punt at their own 31, the Tigers moved into Irish territory in five plays. With Dick Griffith and Duane Perkins alternating at lugging the ball, the Tigers moved through the St. Mary defense. After Griffith plunged to the six-yard stripe, Perkins hit paydirt with a handoff from Quarterback Sam Bumgarner. Dick Oman attempted the conversion but the Irish line charged through to block the kick.

Hopes Boosted

St. Mary boosters perked up just before the end of the half when the Irish appeared ready to move. The local crew began a drive of its own after stopping the Tigers on the 12-yard stripe. The Richwood crew had taken over on the seven when a punt was fumbled and Ron Dildine recovered for the visitors. Four cracks at the line failed to score and the Irish took over. Dave Carr cracked the middle for five, Jam Finnegan skirted end for 11 and Mike Anderson bolted for nine to carry the ball to the 36 A bad pass from center sailed over Kilbury's head and was downed on the 17 for a 20-yard loss A quick kick by Kilbury was touched by a Richwood boy at the midfield stripe and Dick Gunder recovered for the Irish. Dave Carr plunged for four and Kilbury hit Pat O'Connor with a pass at the 25. The sixth fumble of the half killed the Irish hopes as the Tigers recovered.

Nine Fumbles

The St Mary attack, appearing alternately weak and strong, could not begin a sustained drive. A total of nine fumbles were recorded against the locals and the alert Richwood linemen recovered six of them.

* * *

Father Hugh E. Murphy, former assistant pastor at St. Mary, attended the game. He visited the Irish lockerroom after the game. Father Murphy was transferred to St. Charles Church in Columbus last summer

* * *

Don McDaniel, former Harding High School athlete, was a standout performer for the visiting Tigers. In addition to handling the punting assignment, McDaniel was the favorite target of the Richwood passers.

The 54-piece Richwood band entertained at halftime.

Last night's game was the first time this year the Irish had been held scoreless. Fumbles and slowness afoot bottled up the usual effective attack.

Fremont Held To 13-13 Tie

Game Ends With East on One-Yard Line

Special to The Star

FREMONT, Oct. 20 — Fremont Ross was lucky to get off with a 13-13 tie here last night as an aroused Columbus East eleven was halted on the one-yard line when the time ran out in the last quarter.

A slippery halfback by the name of Don Wright spelled doom for the Giants, who were shooting for their sixth straight victory. Wright scored a touchdown from the eight-yard line, took a pass for the extra point and gained 107 yards net.

Ross led 6-0 in the first period when Earl Asperger bucked over from 1-yard out. Ron Whitcomb's place kick was blocked. East went 58-yards in the second, Bob Salmans' bucking over from the one and then Salmans passed to Wright for a 7-6 lead.

On the last play of the third quarter, Jerome (Little Thunder) Surratt bucked five yards for a touchdown. Whitcomb passed to the injured John Lewis for the 13th point East tied it up with 9:19 left, Wright bolting 8 yards to pay dirt. Salmans' kick for the extra point was blocked by Lowell Batie and Charlie Black.

Lewis was hurt in the third quarter and carried the ball only once after that. First downs favored East, 14-10.

Ross gained 217 yards by rushing, East 200. East netted 35 in the air to 26 for Ross.

Do Home Modernizing, Repair Work Now, Say Federal Housing Experts

By WILLIAM KERWIN
INS Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Oct. 20—(INS)—Home owners planning to modernize or repair their houses in the next 12 months may save time and money if they start the projects this fall.

That's the advice of federal housing experts who say the market is favorable in most sections of the nation for home modernization work. Next year the situation may change considerably due to mobilization.

Officials explain that the decline in commercial and residential construction — stemming from the defense program and the normal seasonal drop in building — is freeing larger numbers of skilled workers for other jobs.

Many are finding work in the government's industrial plants expansion program. But others—such as painters and plasterers — are still available for house repair projects.

Moreover, the materials supply situation is generally good at this time. There are no serious difficulties in obtaining most building materials since production controls have not yet had their full impact.

But the current situation on employment and materials is not expected to continue beyond the end of winter. By early spring skilled workers will be in great demand and materials will be scarce.

Housing officials also expect a continued higher price trend on second-hand houses, particularly in the group over $15,000. With sharp cutbacks in new housing, buyers naturally will look into the possibility of acquiring an older house.

This demand will exert new pressures generally on the second-hand house market. Since the government is not approving construction of luxury houses, owners of homes costing more than $15,000 are expected to ask and receive a higher price on their property.

HOUSING ADMINISTRATOR Raymond M. Foley has acted to speed up construction of new homes in the nation's 41 critical defense areas

Foley has set aside 200 million dollars for the immediate use of builders operating in critical areas to begin construction projects held up by the shortage of mortgage money.

Under the plan, a builder may obtain an advance commitment from the government that it will buy a mortgage loan even before the loan contract is signed with a bank or lending institution.

The 200 millions is in addition to 350 millions earmarked last summer for defense housing operations.

Foley points out, however, that only 105 million dollars out of the new money will be available in critical areas generally. He says this is substantially less than the amount needed for the entire program.

The remaining money was split to provide 25 million dollars worth of disaster housing, 50 millions for military construction and 20 millions for home building around atomic energy plants.

* * *

THE LABOR Department reports construction dropped in the nation's four major building centers during the first seven months of this year below rates for the same period in 1950.

New York City led the group in total construction spending with $220,447,000 listed for the period as compared with $234,637,000 last year.

In Los Angeles, construction spending dropped from $226,168,000 to $172,746,000, in Chicago from $154,205,000 to $144,543,000 and Detroit from $138,181,000 to $104,169,000.

For the national total, construction dropped from $6,112,950,000 to $5,539,570,000, about 10 percent below last year's rate from January through July.

The National Association of Home Builders is hoping the government will allow construction of 850,000 new homes next year despite demands for further reductions in housing output.

If the present goal remains in effect, NAHB says the biggest amount of home building will take place in the spring in keeping with the normal seasonal increase in construction.

Under the 850,000 unit plan, the organization says 170,000 homes can be built in the first quarter, 260,000 between April and June, 250,000 between July and September, and 170,000 between October and December.

Bible in Pawn 47 Years, Interest Paid

BOSTON — (UP) — In 1901 a well-dressed man who gave his name as Edward Scott pawned a richly-bound Bible for $1 at the Collateral Loan Co. in downtown Boston.

Scott never redeemed the Bible but for 47 years never missed an interest payment, usually coming to the pawn shop personally. Over the years the total payments amounted to $4.70.

Three years ago Scott stopped coming. Rather than put the Bible up for public auction, an official of the loan company bought it for $1. He plans to present it to Catholic Archbishop Richard J. Cushing of Boston.

At the annual election of the lord mayor of the City of London, sweet-smelling flowers and herbs are scattered over the platform. The practice is a relic of medieval precautions once taken against the plague.

Your Good Health

By DR. HERMAN N. BUNDESEN

Handicapping Birth Injuries

It has long been thought that most cases of mental retardation, epilepsy, or cerebral palsy are due to a faulty inheritance. Recent studies show that this conclusion may not be justified.

Of 419 children having one or another of the above conditions, more than half were shown to have suffered injury at birth. In one of six, the difficulty could be traced to injury during babyhood. The findings suggested a hereditary basis for the trouble in only one out of six cases.

It thus becomes extremely important to protect every infant from injury at the time of birth. Labor offers a number of hazards for the child. Early separation of the afterbirth, or structure through which the unborn child receives nourishment from the mother, a low-lying afterbirth or prematurity may result in damage to the child.

During delivery, over-sized infants, heavy anesthesia, the use of large amounts of sedatives, long labor, the use of certain drugs to hasten delivery, breech delivery, a caesarean section, and the indiscriminate use of instruments are common causes of birth injuries.

Large amounts of sedatives and heavy anesthesias appeared as the principal causes of 17 percent of all birth injuries in a recent study. The good health of a child should not be sacrificed in order to make childbirth completely painless.

Another common practice which is the cause of many birth injuries is that of holding the infant's head back until the attending physician arrives.

Various methods have been tried to decrease the number of birth injuries occurring to infants. As our experience with anesthesia and pain - relieving drugs becomes more profound, fewer and fewer children will have permanent defects due to these factors.

In complicated deliveries, the early consultation with an obstetrical specialist will prevent many more.

The use of instruments during the period of delivery should be kept at a minimum. Drugs should not be used indiscriminately to speed up labor, except when there are specific reasons.

Adequate care of the mother before delivery, with frequent visits to her physician so that he may early diagnose any complication of the pregnancy is extremely important, for it may make the difference between a healthy child and one hopelessly handicapped for life.

Many Ballots Invalidated

But Court Rule Won't Affect Marion County

A ruling yesterday by the Ohio Supreme Court which will result in the junking of several thousands of ballots before the Nov. 6 election, will not affect Marion County's ballots.

The court ruled yesterday that all candidates appearing on the ballot must be rotated equally. That means that county election boards who had ballots printed without rotation must throw them away and have new ones printed.

A spokesman for the Marion County Board of Elections said this morning, the ballots printed for use here had been printed in accordance with the rotation rule. He said the local board had always rotated the names of candidates.

ENGEL APPEARS TO TESTIFY—AND MAKE LOVE. Sigmund Engel, 76-year-old convicted swindler, who is serving his sentence in the Illinois State Penitentiary, appeared to have lost none of his ardor for women as he embraced Mrs. Pauline Langston (above) in an ante-room of Circuit Court in Chicago. Engel, who claims to be married to Mrs. Langston, is the principal figure in a suit for damages totaling $225,000. Two other women who claim they were victims of Engel's sweet talk are plaintiffs in the law suit.

Congress

can be taken up when Congress reconvenes in January.

The Senate planned today to take up several minor bills before turning to the appropriations measures.

When the three money bills are passed, Congress will have appropriated about $85,000,000,000 for the 1952 fiscal year which began July 1.

This is an all-time record in a non-war year. It is exceeded only by $147,000,000,000 voted in fiscal 1943 and $114,000,000,000 in fiscal 1944—in the midst of World War Two.

DISGUSTED. This is no Halloween prankster hiding behind the mask. It is a woman who testified at Washington before a Prince Georges County (Md) Grand Jury which is investigating gambling. She declined to reveal her name as she stepped from the hearing room wearing the mask. Obviously, she wanted to keep her face from being photographed, also.

Wind Tunnel Opens New Space Vistas

SAN FRANCISCO—(UP)—The first supersonic wind tunnel for studying the almost unknown region 80 to 200 miles above the earth is in operation at the University of California at Berkeley.

Air speeds as great as 950 miles per hour, more than the speed of sound, have been produced in a stainless steel tube only five feet long and one and one-half feet wide. The offices of naval and air research furnished funds to build the tunnel.

Air speeds of 1,800 miles per hour can be made in the new tunnel by firing tiny molecules into the tube under extreme heat. This stimulates the atmosphere which has so far been entered only by rockets and comic strip heroes

Before the supersonic tunnel was developed, scientists could produce only a little over a 50-mile-an-hour wind in air tunnels.

HANDY FOR COPS

MINERAL WELLS, Tex. (UP)—A painter picked a convenient spot—for police—when he did some early morning sidewalk driving. He crashed through the double glass doors of a cafe two doors north of police headquarters.

Genial Stranger Buys, But It's Wrong Beer

MUNCIE, Ind.—(UP)—A beer distributor seeking to promote his brand stepped into a tavern and invited all the customers to have a bottle on him.

They accepted and crowded around the bar while the distributor gave the order to the bartender.

"Sorry, sir, we're out of that brand," the bartender said.

The distributor was disappointed, but he was a good sport.

"Then give them another brand," he said.

SYPHILIS RATE FALLS

CHICAGO—(UP)—The syphilis rate of Chicago selectees examined shortly after the outbreak of the Korean war was 52 percent lower than those examined in the early days of the 1940-41 draft, Dr. Herman N. Bundesen, president of the Chicago Board of Health, reported.

From an airplane a mile high, the ocean's horizon would be about 95 miles distant.
